

FREEDOM SHRINE—The Farmington Exchange Club collected $400 to donate three "freedom shrines" to each of the area high schools. The "shrines" contain sealed copies of documents important to American history. David Abowd (left), vice president of the student council, and Maureen Laughlin, president of the student council, accept the gift from Charles Bridges, president of the Exchange Club. (Evert photo)

CRAIG LEWIS, 32211 Red Clover, was awarded scouting's highest rank, eagle, at a ceremony for Troop 48 at North Farmington High School recently. The ceremony, presided over by Scoutmaster Glenn Black, was also distinguished by the playing of "Taps" on a 200-year-old post horn by Tom Tekai.

Decorations In Library

troops for trimming the trees in the adult reading room and the children's room.

4 Initiated As Stoics

FARMINGTON
Four Farmington students have been initiated into the Stoic Society, oldest honorary society at Eastern Michigan University.

The society was established in 1909 by the head of the department of oratory, J. Stuart Lathers.

Honored were Colleen M. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lee, 22750 Hayden, a junior geology major; and Marissa A. Madias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Madias, 25411 Lees-tock Court, a junior music major.

Membership is on the basis of high scholarship, interest in general affairs on the campus, moral responsibility, and initiative rather than passive ability in class.
