She doesn't drive but likes to ride. No matter in who's car. She doesn't care where she goes. Be it near or far. Its beginning now to be a joke when I holler, scream or shout. Cause when she gets in that car, It's hard to get her out. I know it is a problem. It all just doesn't seem right. But I always take her anyway. More or less to avoid a fight. She does have her good points, though and in many ways is handy. I think she knows who I mean. My darling sister Stanley. Happy Birthday Yvonne. Your Sister Doreen.

YOU'RE quite a guy, real smart man, Always doing the best you can Taking all the sass that comes from me. You're still loving as can be. You're sweet and dear, gentle and kind All the love in my heart Goes into this Valentine. I hope this poem isn't too crummy But it was written just for you. My husband, Bummy. Love, Pookie

What Wife and Mother could ask for more? What else could I ever Need? But the Family I have now A true miracle indeed. I do not want for silver Riches or precious gold. I need not that to be happy. I have my family to behold. You're all my precious Valentines Every last one of you. You're on my mind, day and night No matter what I do. Happy Valentine's Day. Nish, Haig, Rosemarie, Johnny.
