He Opposes New Center

EDITOR:

In view of the surplus of malls surrounding Farmington, I fail to see the necessity for a K-mart. I do not live near the proposed site but am as equally concerned as the people who do.

The planning commission should represent the citizen's concern and not that of the developer. Not only will nearby residents be subjected to a view of "a sea of flat roof tops," but the area will realize an increase in traffic, and stores already established in Farmington will lose potential customers.

I am not against progress, but quality in progress which only "a greenbelt of trees and mounding is not." I will voice my concern to the commission and I hope others will, too.
