BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

BIBLE STUDY ON THE WEDDING FEAST.

Matthew 22:1-14—Aug. 23.

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the Prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered the children together, as a hen gathereth her brood under her wings, and ye would not!"—Luke 13:34.

HERE we have another parable of the Kingdom. Today's lesson shows that God's promises and providences toward Israel under the Law Covenant were to prepare that nation to be God's holy nation and especially to provide for Christ's coming a sufficient number to constitute the elect Church, Messiah's joint-heirs in the Kingdom—His Bride. The parable shows that only a few were "crucified indeed" in whom was no guile—not enough to constitute the Kingdom class. Hence the call of this Gospel Age, selecting from the Gentiles sufficient of salutary character to be joint-heirs with the Jewish remnant in the Messianic Kingdom.

The Marriage of the Lamb. Jehovah Himself is the King who made a marriage for His Son—arranging before the foundation of the world that there should be joint-heirs with Christ in His Kingdom. This marriage, of course, could not take place until the King's Son had come into the world and, by His obedience unto death, had made the way for His servants and for His Kingdom. At the appropriate time God sent His servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding. But they would not come. The Pharisees and the Sadducees and their disciples did this work of calling to the attention of Israel the fact that the King's Son was in their midst—John 1:28; 3:20.

Again, other servants were sent forth. Jesus sent His disciples to the Jews, saying to them that were bidden, "All things are ready. Come to the marriage." But the people, under the guidance of the scribes and the Pharisees, the theologians of that day, made light of the Message and went—one to his farm and another to his merchandise—saying, "We do not have this Kingdom Message. Some did even worse than this. They treated these servants shamefully and slew them."

Then, as seen in another parable, Jehovah was wroth with Israel. He sent forth armies and destroyed those murderers and burned their city. The fact that it was the Roman army under Titus which destroyed Jerusalem, A. D. 70, did not make it any less Jehovah's army; for He is able to make the wrath of man praise Him and able to use whom He may please as His messengers for good or evil.

Then, as seen in another parable, Jehovah was wroth with Israel. He sent forth armies and destroyed those murderers and burned their city. The fact that it was the Roman army under Titus which destroyed Jerusalem, A. D. 70, did not make it any less Jehovah's army; for He is able to make the wrath of man praise Him and able to use whom He may please as His messengers for good or evil.

Gentiles Called to the Wedding. Meaning: God said to His servants, the Apostles, and others through them, The wedding is provided for; but the Jewish nation, which was especially invited, has not proved worthy of the honor. He ye, therefore, worthy to be joint-heirs with me in the Kingdom. The servants did so, and the wedding was furnished with guests.

The highways represent public concourse. The Lord's ambassadors were no longer Jews, but men of every nation, strict themselves to Jews, but were to make known everywhere the fact that God is now calling out of the world a little company, lovers of righteousness, to become eventually Christ's joint-heirs in His Kingdom. Be it noted that these ambassadors were not to intercept all in the Highway, but merely to urge upon all they met in the concourse the great privilege of the open door to the wedding feast.

Inspecting the Guests. The man found without a wedding garment in the presence of the King represents a class, not merely one individual. Today we might find just such a class, professing to be Christ's followers, but declaring that they no longer trust in the merit of His sacrifice for sin. They have rejected Jesus as their Savior, their Redeemer, and retain Him merely as their Teacher, apparently accepting only a part of His teachings. The parable shows that this class will be rejected from the Kingdom privileges.

When our minds were filled with hallucinations of the Dark Ages, we assumed that this class, represented by the man without a wedding garment, would be cast into eternal torment. But now we perceive that as the guests were called out of the darkness of the world into the light of the wedding chamber, so the casting of some into the outer darkness would mean merely the taking from him the knowledge and joy represented by the light.

Our Lord's statement, "Many are called, but few chosen," does not mean that only a select few will receive God's favor in the future. For eight hundred years the Gospel Call has sounded. Yet comparatively few have accepted and come into the elect condition—the Church, the Bride of Christ.

Thus again the Master explained the matter saying, "Fear not, Little Flock, for I say unto you, your Father's good pleasure is to give you the Kingdom." The Little Flock, composed of Jews and Gentiles, will through faithful service become God's chosen people—the Bride of Christ.

TRIED TO BRIBE HER

By CHARLES PHELPS CUSHING.

Mamie Skaggs was in one of her gloomy moods. It was a muggy evening that took the luster from her politician's star and the military nannies from her uniform.

There was a smudge of soot on one of her white gloves. She twirled her club until it struck her on the crazy bone.

A little farther down the street she splashed into a puddle and spoiled a shoe shine. An obstinate lock of hair kept coming down from under her helmet.

Overcome with a sense of her unfitness to ornament the highways, she began to maneuver into the shelter of every shadow. When a long-hanging branch leaned over her head and fearfully mussed her hair, she decided to journey to the next signal-station by way of the alleys.

For half a block she trudged down one of these alleys where the blackness was almost as unbroken as in a cave. In the dark she quickly became again what we are accustomed to describe as "maufull."

A faint noise, something like the snapping of a piece of kindling, wood, caught her ear.

It was followed by the unmistakable tinkle of bits of glass dropping on stone. Mamie paused and listened calmly.

Five minutes later came some more tinkling of glass and the thump of two heels on the pavement. The policeman pressed a button and the burglar was illuminated as if by a sudden spotlight. He scarcely needed to be told to throw up his hands. Mamie dexterously acquired his revolver, his tools and a jingling bundle in a canvas bag.

Then she marched him on down the alley and out in the glare of an arc light. The wretch at the edge of a little park. The alarm box, toward which the policeman was headed, was in a shelter house straight ahead. When they reached the door of it she commanded:

"Step in!"

She followed him, switching on the electric light.

"Holy mackerell!" the burglar gasped. "A woman cop! Pinned by a sister!"

"Put up your wrists!" she ordered. "Not that way! Like this!" She laughed. "You've never been arrested before?"

"Never by a woman," he agreed.

"Cut that stuff," she interrupted testily, "or I'll paste you one over the nose."

"Did any one ever tell you that that uniform suits you just handsomely?"

"No!"

"Well, it does, just the same—though it would make most women look as ugly as a clay bank."

"I'm sure it's very kind of you to say so—"

"I mean it," he insisted. "I wouldn't take the trouble to say so if I didn't honestly admire you."

"Lord! The nerve of the man!" she sighed. "What blarney!"

"Blarney, nothing! What I am to do? If you were in my place, I knew you had only a few more minutes of freedom, and you found yourself alone in the park with a handsome young lady, wouldn't you improve the shining moment? The answer is 'Yes!'"

The big blue eyes surveyed him hungrily.

"Billy," she cried. "I'm plain as a brick wall. Why I've never even had a proposal!"

The burglar gazed astoundedly.

"How the devil could that be? Unless you wouldn't let them!"

"I'd let them soon enough," she assured him. "Nobody ever wanted to."

The burglar made a fine figure as he drew himself up like a soldier about to salute a superior. But as he tried to straighten his arms the handcuffs jingled. The policeman volunteered to take them off.

"Don't!" he protested. "I deserve them all right. I don't ask unfair favors."

Her embarrassment was extreme, amounting almost to nervousness.

"I was about to say," he continued, "that you're braver and franker and more handsome than any other woman I ever met. And if you've never had a proposal you're about to hear one now. I'm not a crook. You guessed that right enough when you put the handcuffs on me. I'm an excitement-crazy adventurer, making a fool of myself on a bet. A lot of women would like to have me. I don't mind telling you so. If you'll shut up about this little escapade and let me sneak away, I'll give you my written word of honor that I'll marry you. My name is—"

Swift and straight the policeman's club descended on his head!

He sank forward limp and gasping. Her cheeks burning with indignation, Mamie turned her back, dashed across the room and rang in an alarm on the Gainswell box.

Then, she knelt on the floor, her eyes brimming with tears, and pilloved the burglar's head on her lap.

"Beast!" she sobbed. "He tried to bribe me!"

HOME MADE ACETYLENE

For LIGHTING and COOKING

Filtered Gaslight For Rural Homes

Acetylene Gaslight is a natural light. In fact it is plain, everyday, world-old Sunlight. But it is Sunlight muzzled so that you can use it as "soft" or as brilliant as you choose, by the mere turning of a tap on the chandeliers, or by the use of plain white glass globes.

Moreover, Acetylene is practically filtered light from which all useless or injurious light, soot, or excessive heat factors are eliminated.

On this account an Acetylene flame, one-tenth the size of that from Kerosene, Gasoline or City Gas, gives as much cooling light as ten-tenths of these other illuminants. Which means that Acetylene produces only a fraction of the heat, air-consumption and Carbonic Acid gas poisoning which other lights produce.

About two days' labor will install a PILOT County Home Acetylene Plant.

and forever dispense with the disagreeable lamp cleaning, filling, wick snuffing and chimney wiping needed 305 days in a year with kerosene lamps.

You can use Pilot Acetylene, as fuel in your kitchen range—clean, concentrated gas fuel that will do away entirely with coal and ashes.

Write me today how many rooms and how many barns and outbuildings you've got—then I will tell you how little it need cost you to install a suitable Pilot Lighting Plant—an Acetylene Plant which will be good for many years steady use and pay for itself in the labor it saves. Address me thus—

OFFICIAL PRIMARY ELECTION BALLOT.

Instructions to Voters—First, Do not vote your party by making a cross in the circle at the head of the ticket you wish to vote.

Second—Place a cross (X) in square at the left of the names of many candidates in your party column, as there are to be nominated for each office.

First find the column on the ballot containing the name of your political party. Then mark a circle under the name of your party. If you stop here you will have voted for no one and your ballot will be thrown out. Make your vote count, you must make a cross in the square before the name of such candidates as you wish to vote for. If you wish to vote for some one whose name is not on the ballot, write it in, and put a cross beside the name. If you neglect to make a cross in the square under the name of your political party but do make a cross before the name of some one of such candidates in any party column, but if party candidates are thus voted for in more than one party column, in such case the whole ballot will be thrown. Please note also that no vote will be counted for any one unless there is a cross before his name.

REGISTRATION.

All party enrollment is done away with, but every person must be registered, the same as required for former elections. If your name is not already registered in your precinct, you must have it registered on any day by complying with the statute as set forth in the notices of registration posted herewith.

Saved by His Hobby.

There was an official on one of our great railroads who was retired at seventy. "He'll die now," said his friends kindly. But he didn't. Instead, he became interested in the wild flowers, and now he is too busy looking for the rarest head orchid, and trying to find a new station for the hart's tongue fern, and tramping around in the woods and fields in all kinds of weather, even to think of dying. Anyway, he wouldn't have time until he's finished his monograph on the willows of the United States.—Lippincott's.

London's Government.

Greater London, with a population of 7,000,000 and an area of 700 square miles, is rapidly becoming a city of 35 city boroughs and 29 suburban towns, governed by various city and town councils, but in certain matters subordinate to the London county council.
