

A lot of Detroiters are finding it difficult to believe that it is really the Glinnan case that is being tried.

It took some people a long time to learn what a really big man they elected to the White House at the last election.

"September Morn" is entitled to all of the credit and publicity that she has received, if they were as chilly as the 1914 variety of sunrise periods.

A lot of Republican editors look about at happy over Osborne heading the Republican ticket, as a mongrel pup who has just discovered a fresh bunch of fleas.

It looks like the anti-prohibitionists were going to have a good talking point in the fact that they will be called upon to raise the greater portion of that $100,000,000 war tax.

Editor Chas. Seed of the Rochester Clarion must have a big family or a lot of relatives. Last week he took time to figure out that it was only 111 days until Christmas.

If all of the battles that have been reported in American newspapers had really been fought in the present war, there would be no need of praying for peace — there would be no one left to pray for.

Some of the contestants in the primary election in Oakland county learned their first lesson in advertising — Holly Herald. Yes, and those who spent a neat little sum judiciously with the county papers will have the pleasure of seeing their names on the official ballot in the coming election.

A news note says that a man who recently attempted suicide by jumping in the Detroit River, upon being rescued and pulled out high and dry, immediately requested that he be given a cigarette. The article concludes by saying that the man is believed crazy. Anti cigarette forces will be willing to swear to it.

This is the season of the year when the mail order catalogue is fashionable. If you don't believe it, take a look at some of the boxes at the postoffice, or better yet, watch the rural carriers. And then if you want to make a good safe bet, just place your money that the biggest half of outgoing money orders from the local post-offices are made payable to the order of Mail Order concerns. Most of the local business houses have the same goods which they are willing to sell just as cheap, but unlike Messrs. Montgomery and Sears, they have neglected to tell the people about it. And further all of the mail order buying is not done by the farmer — not by a long shot. There's a lot of it done right here in the village.

Outside of the war news contained, the average daily newspaper is of about as much value for news purposes as a crutch would be to a perfectly able bodied four legged cow.

The Monitor, which is always enthusiastic and clamorous for the ticket, supports Chase S. Osborn for governor, and earnestly protests that it likes the dose. When the writer was a small boy there was a certain yellow pitcher that stood on the second shelf of a black walnut stand, just under the stairway. A part of the spout was broken off. The yellow pitcher contained goose oil, so thick it was almost viscous. Periodically it was considered appropriate to crowd a tablespoonful down our neck, to sort of regulate the system. If you ever took goose oil, then you know how this Chase S. Osborn nomination tastes and smells in a Republican gullet. We like it first rate.

We are for Chase S. Osborn for governor — not because he is a Republican, because he is not that; not because he knows what he is, because he doesn't; not because he is anything politically, because he isn't; not because he has either consistency as to principals or loyalty to persons, because he has not these things; not because he isn't a political fuzzy-wuzzy, because he is just that.

Why, then, are we for Chase S. Osborn for governor?

Primarily for the reasons powerfully stated in the excerpt from the immortal bard quoted above. If this is not enough, we support him because in the eerie manifestations of our primary election law he was nominated by a small minority on the Republican ticket. And if this is not enough, we support him as a penance for our sins, even as the one-time merry nun of the Droll Stories dedicated her stomachic and intestinal writhings to heaven as condonement of her offenses. We support him because he is the only man alive who was for Taft, for Roosevelt, for Wilson, and then for Roosevelt, all in a period of 40 days. Herein is demonstrated the amplitude of his agility, and taken with his declarations for the suffering poor and the "down-trodden rich," goes to prove beyond contradiction that he is the friend of all the people. Such fixity of devotion to the common cause should be recognized. We are for him because the Republican party was for him year after year, and gave him office after office, to his honor and glory. Why should we stop now? And we are for him because in the fearful waste of Madagascar he dug up an egg of the extinct epyornis, by this time equally palatable with other of his ameliorative propositions. It is no more rotten than the demand that socialism be injected into the Republican state platform. — Mt. Clemens Monitor.
