WE ARE LONG ON PRODUCTION, SHORT ON DISTRIBUTION.

By Peter Radford Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

By Peter Radford Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The economic distribution of farm products is today the world's greatest problem and the war, while it has brought its hardships, has clearly emphasized the importance of distribution as a factor in American agriculture and promises to give the farmers the cooperation of the government of the production of the company of the compa market.

The World Will Never Starve.

At no time since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden have the inhabitants of this world suffered from lack of production, but some people have gone hungry from the day of creation to this good hour for the lack of proper distribution. Slight variations in production have forced a change in det and one the subject of the lack of the lack of the world as a mable has ever been a land of pleaty. We now have less than one-tenth of the tillable land of the earth's surface under cultivation, and we not only have this surplus area to draw on but it is safe-be estimate that in case of dire necessity one-half the earth's population could at the present time knock their living out of the trees of the forest, gather it from wild vines and draw it from streams. No one should become alarmed; the world will never starve. Ways feared this made his fright bas found expression on the statute books of our states and nations and the farmer has been urged to produce recklessly and without reference to a market, and regardless of the forest the soil.

The city people have been urging each other to move back to the farm, but very few of them have moved. We welcome our city cousins back to the soil and this earth's surface contains 16,092,160,000 idie acres of till able land where they can make all ving by tickling the not need them to receive the receiving production is converted; we now have all the producers we can use. The city man has very erroneous ideas of agricultural conditions. The commonly accepted theory that we are short on production is all worns. Our annual increase in production for exceeds that of our increase in production of the samount there is approximately 769,000,000 acres one incultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 769,000,000 acres one incultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 769,000,000 acres one incultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 769,000,000 acres one incultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 769,000,000 clude grazing lands, forests, etc., where large quantities of meat are produced.

The world's annual crop approximates of teen billion bushels of cereals, thirteen billion bushels of cereals, thirteen billion poss of meat.

The world's annual world crop for the past five years, compared with the past five years, compared with the past five years, is as follows:

Past Half Previous Half Crops— Decade.

COTO (Bu.) 3.391,174.000, 3.093,515.000

Otton (Bales) 19,863,800 3.257,522,000

Otton (Bales) 19,863,800 17,541,200

The world shows an average in crease in cereal production of 13 percent during the past decade, compared with the previous five years, while the world's population shows an increase of only three per cent.

The gain in production for exceede that of our increase in population, and it is safe to estimate that the farmer can easily increase production 2 per cent if a reminerative insafet careful careful are reminerative insafet careful are reminerative insafet careful.

can easily increase production 25 per cent if a remunerative market can be found for the products. In textile bres the world shows an increase during the past hair decade in produc-tion increase of three per cent. The, people of this nation should address themselves to the subject of improved facilities for distribution.
