MINES THREATENED WITH HELP FAMINE

Supply of Men Will Not Equal Demand in Copper Country.

CALUMET, MICH. — One big problem, the Lake Superior copper mines, are going to have to face when the market for copper metal is righted and moves steadily on its way, is the securing of a sufficient number of men for their mines and surface workings. Every mining company now has long lists of applicants for work and there are many men out of work, but the present over supply of men can not commence to take care of the demand, as it will be when conditions are brought back to normal or when there will come such a demand for copper, as it inevitably must come, that it will be found necessary to push production at every mine in the country.

Right now a great many experienced miners are working as trammers, muckers and laborers in the Lake Superior camp. These men will go back to mining of course, but what will the producers get, their trammers and laborers? A great many left the district during and following the strike and hundreds have left since operations were curtailed. The reduction of forces of the Calumet & Hecla alone was very heavy, but there are hardly 400 idle men in Calumet, according to present estimates. Only about 50 per cent of these are married men, as most of the married men have been taken care of.

GRAZED OVER LINE FENCES

Man Sent to Pontiac After Year of Confined Trouble.

OWOSSO, MICH. — Hiram Whitman, thirty-five years of age, unmarried and living at Perry, has been sent to the state asylum at Pontiac.

About eighteen months ago he and his brother were quarreled over property left them jointly by their mother and Hiram used a knife with disastrous effect on his brother, who, however, survived the attack. Alonzo sold his part of the property to Arthur Finch. Then Hiram destroyed fences and other property to show his displeasure at this action. Finch had him arrested on the charge of malicious destruction of property and the insanity proceedings followed.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IMMINENT

Aged Man Falls Down Stairs; Believed Dying.

OWOSSO, MICH. — Gilbert R. Lyon, seventy-nine years old, is believed to be dying at his home in this city as the result of falling down stairs. He was found unconscious on the second floor, his skull fractured.

Mr. Lyon is the manager of the Oak Hill Cemetery association, the oldest alumni of the University of Michigan in the county, and the oldest member of the Shawanset society here. He is well known in Democratic politics.

His wife, who is the same age, has been confined to her bed for several weeks with a fractured leg and there is some doubt whether she will ever be able to walk again.

She Hikes to Matrimony.

SAGINAW, MICH. — Miss Marie Bieberts who left Saginaw last spring with her sister Little on a hike to San Francisco has been married to J. Cohn of Carleton Neb. A letter to her father announced the marriage and explained that Marie met Cohn while the girls were resting in Carlin. During the holidays Cohn journeyed to San Francisco and renewed the suit he began in Carlin.

THE RURAL PRESS

The Local Paper a Most Useful Agency on the Farm, Press, Pulpit and School a Trinity of Influence That Must Be Utilized in Building Agriculture.

By Peter Radford.
Lecturer National Farmers' Union

A broad campaign of publicity on the subject of rural life is needed in this state today to bring the problems of the farmers to the forefront. The city problems are blazoned upon the front pages of the metropolitan dailies and echoed in the country press, but the troubles of the farmers are seldom told, except by those who seek to profit by the story, and the slither of the package often obscures the substance. A searching investigation into the needs of the farmers will reveal many inherent defects in our economic system that can be easily remedied when properly understood and illuminated by the power of the press.

The rural press, the pulpit and the school are a trinity of powerful influences that the farmer must utilize to their fullest capacity before he can occupy a commanding position in public affairs. These gigantic agencies are organized in every rural community and only await the patronage and co-operation of the farmers to fully develop their energy and usefulness. They are local forces working for the best interests of their respective communities. Their work is to build and their object is to serve. They prosper only through the development and prosperity of the community.

Every farmer in this state should subscribe for the local paper, as well as farm periodicals and such other publications as he may find profitable, but he should by all means subscribe for his local paper, and no home should be without it. The local paper is part of the community life and the editor understands the farmer's problems. It is the local press that will study the local problems and through its columns deal with subjects of most vital importance to local life of the community.

A Noble Task.

In too many instances the country papers mimic the city press by giving prominence to scandals, accidents and political agitation. The new rural civilization has placed upon the rural press renewed responsibilities, and enlarged possibilities for usefulness. It cannot perform its mission to agriculture by recording the facts, the misdeeds and inordinate ambitions of humanity, or by filling its columns with the echoes of the struggles of busy streets, or by enchanting stories of city life which lure our children from the farm.

It has a higher and nobler task. Too often the pages of the city dailies bristle with the struggle of ambitious men in their wild lust for power, and many times the flames of personal conflict sear the tender buds of new civilization and illuminate the path-way to destruction. The rural press is the governing power of public sentiment and must hold steadfast to principle and keep the ship of state in the roadstead of progress. The rural press can best serve the interests of the farmers by applying its energies to the solution of problems affecting the local community. It must stem the mighty life current that is moving from the farm to the cities, sweeping before it a thousand boys and girls per day. It has to deal with the fundamental problems of civilization at their fountain head. Its mission is to direct growth, teach efficiency and mold the intellectual life of the country, placing before the public the daily problems of the farmers and giving first attention to the legislative, co-operative, educational and social needs of the agricultural classes within its respective community.

The Power of Advertising.

The influence of advertising is clearly visible in the homes and habits of the farmers, and the advertising columns of the press are making their imprint upon the lives of our people. The farmer possesses the things that are best advertised.

The farmer is entitled to all the advantages and deserves all the luxuries of life. We need more art, science and a useful, facilities on the farm, and many homes and farms are well balanced in this respect, but the advertiser can render a service by teaching the advantages of modern equipment throughout the columns of the rural press.

The farmers are in need of personal leadership. They have political leaders, but they need local industrial community and educational leaders.
