For about an hour Tuesday night it was suspected that horse thieves were again at work. L. E. Malow had left his rig hitched on State street near the Grace store while he attended the Dairy-men's meeting, and when he returned to the spot, both horse and rig were missing. As a result he was compelled to walk home, but upon arriving there found that the horse had preceded him, having evidently broken loose.

ADVISED TO TURN HER BACK

Great Detective Was Not Long in Finding Reason for Clock Stopping While Woman Faced It.

The great detective put down the lead ten hypodermic needle and looked closely at his visitor.

With one lightning glance, he noticed that she was cross-eyed on both sides, especially the right; pug-nosed, hare-lipped, freckled, and that her chin was so receding as to look almost ashamed of its presence there at all.

"You say," he remarked thoughtfully, "that your eight-day clock stops unaccountably in spite of its guarantee?"

"Absolutely in spite of it," she replied. "When I take it to the jeweler's it goes all right, but as soon as I bring it home again, it stops. It's not because I don't wind it, for it's right before my eyes. I should say so! It's my favorite clock and I can't rest until I find out the cause."

"Well—ah—," began the great detective, crossing his arms and at the same time uncrossing his legs so as not to give himself the double cross. "Well, do you—ah—look straight at the clock when you wind it?"

"Why, yes. I stare right at it, of course!"

Again the great detective took a lightning survey of the homeliest woman that had ever crossed his threshold.

"Madam," he said at length, "I advise you to try winding it with your back to it. No special reason, of course. I merely deduct that it's that kind of a clock. No fee."

Sharp Practice.

Young Clerk—The boss has gone crazy. He is advertising $10 lace at a cent a yard.

Old Clerk—That's a drawing card. He won't have to sell any of it.

"Why not?"

"He has informed the lace clerks that any lady who buys a piece of that lace must carry it home herself."

A Political Economist.

"I hope you will remember, Caesar," said the judge to his man, "that your vote is about your dearest possession."

"Yassuh," said Caesar. "Ah'm keepin' dat in mind, Judge; but at de same time, sub, we got tuh beah in mind de fact dat it don't pay to make it so dear nobody kin afford to buy it, sub."

—Judge.

DOG USED HIM BADLY.

Jings—Great Scott, man. You look as though you'd been caught in a cyclone.

Binga (a wreck)—Saw a big dog down the street while I was and I put him on the back and called him a good dog.

Jings—The dog was evidently impervious to flattery.

Letting Her Down.

"Best shoe salesman that ever waited on me," declared Mrs. Wombat, who is no Cinderella.

"How's that?"

"Said I ought to wear a No. 2, but that extremes are never in good taste, so he suggested a No. 5."

Gets His.

Park Seat—Gentlemen, think it pays to advise that way, do?

Sandwich Man (warmly)—Say, do, youse think I'm doin' this thing to git into a rah-rah fraternity?—Puck.

Lucky Point Here.

"Flint heart never yet won fair lady," quoted Mrs. Gabb, as she teased aside the magazine she was reading.

"Some guys have all the luck," growled Mr. Gabb.

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to fall dead any time.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is happy to me to-day, a fat, rosy checked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. R. CANNON, Worth, Mo.

The unbounded confidence Mr. Cannon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Profit by the experience of others while you may.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.
