A COIFFURE DINNER

A Novel Function at Which-by Their Hair Ye Shall Know Them.

At a novelty in the shape of a coiffure dinner each guest was requested to come with his or her head dressed to represent some person or abstract character.

The host wore a long white beard and white hair and furs which made him immediately recognizable as Santa Claus. The hostess, in brilliant colors with a scepter and head dress and flowing robe, says What to Eat, was Aurora. A white coiffure sprinkled with silver dust to represent snow and tresses was Winter.

One exceptionally pretty effect was that of Electra. She had an electric battery concealed about her head, from which violet rays were apparently coming. The hostess, in brilliant colors with a scepter and head dress and flowing robe, says What to Eat, was Aurora. A white coiffure sprinkled with silver dust to represent snow and tresses was Winter.

Among the other characters depicted by their head dress was Spring, the funny man of the party, who had a bed spring fastened to his head, from which violet rays were apparently coming. The hostess, in brilliant colors with a scepter and head dress and flowing robe, says What to Eat, was Aurora. A white coiffure sprinkled with silver dust to represent snow and tresses was Winter.

IMPORTANT FIGURE IN BIG BANK FIGHT

Milton E. Ailes.

Milton E. Ailes is first vice president of the Riggs National Bank of Washington, which has begun injunction proceedings against Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Controller of the Currency John Skelton Williams. Ailes is second only in importance in the personnel of the bank to President Glover. He succeeded Williams in the directorate of the Seaboard Air Line.

Manufacturing English Jams.

While English jams have a large and enthusiastic following the world over, much of the manufacturing is done in France, where the fruit pulps constituting the base of many of their cases are shells, and is thus shipped to England in bulk, where they are compounded. Among the contributions of France in particular are black currants, cherries, raspberries, apricots, plums and similar small fruits.

Animal Rock Builders.

One class of rock builders are endowed with animal life. The pyramids and the sphinx are built of stone made by these animals. They are the lowest forms of animal life, mere specks of jelly, some of which have the power of covering themselves with shell, yet they are able to walk without feet, to capture their prey without hands, and all by means of the gelatinous substance of which they are composed. They throw out threads of living flesh, which seize and digest their food—as though we could digest a beefsteak by taking it in our hands! The rock is composed of their cases or shells, and is thus full of organized remains. The stone of which Paris is built is composed of these fossil shells. They form marble and thus enter into the most beautiful forms of sculpture.

Perfumed Warning Pans.

Perfumed warning pans are used in some of the country mansions of France. When guests remain overnight the host endeavors to discover the scent each prefers, and thus the sheets are impregnated with helle-trope, rose, lily or other desired perfume.

STARTING WORK ON DETROIT MOTOR SPEEDWAY PLANT LOCATED NEAR WYANDOTTE, MICH.

With a hundred teams, two steam shovels and a few hundred men work on the new Speedway located below Detroit is now being pushed on a "daylight to dark schedule." Double crews will be operated later as the contractors are under bond to complete their work by August 1st. The opening race, Labor Day, will be for a purse of $75,000, the largest ever offered in any sporting event in the world. This is bound to attract all of the leading riders of this and other countries.

Walter E. Flanders, president of the Maxwell Motor Company, states that he will enter three cars in this event and furthermore this gentleman predicts that the Detroit track will be the fastest in the world.

The Detroit Motor Speedway corporation is strictly a home organization, composed of leading businessmen of that city. In their gigantic proposition two reasons were given by the officials for placing stock on the market, but the most important was that the general public would be more interested in the affairs of the concern if financially interested. The Indianapolis Speedway earns about 60 per cent per annum, so the Detroit people think that they have something that will not be long on the market.

DETROIT MAN INVENTS NOISELESS CAR WHEEL

Edwin C. Madden Gives Successful Demonstration of "Silent Wheel" on Lines in Portland, Me.; Said to Solve Noise Problem on All Railway Trains and to Prehage New Era in Transportation.

The age of the noiseless street car is at hand, when crowded city thoroughfares will be peacefully as quiet as a country lane and railway trains will speed across the continent with only a gentle hum as if carried on the wings of the wind. A "silent wheel," invented by Edwin C. Madden of New York, formerly of Detroit, is the agent that may bring about this revolution in the transportation business.

Medical authorities everywhere and the anti-noise societies throughout the country have long demanded, in the interest of public health, the suppression of the nerve-racking, health-destroying noises of railway traffic. In that respect the wheel is an actual public necessity. It will eliminate the noise nuisance in a great degree, both for those who ride and for those who reside or do business on or adjacent to street railway lines. Incidentally, the wheel greatly reduces motor noise. The adoption of this wheel will largely restore property values which have been impaired or lost by reason of the establishment of street railway systems with their attendant noise nuisances.
