Money Wanted.

"That young millionaire says he holds you in the kindest remembrance. He says it was at a party given by you that he proposed to his wife."

"The affair has unpleasant reminiscences for me. That was a very expensive party, and I gave it in the expectation that he was going to propose to one of my girls."

THE CAUSE.

Mike—Phew! come over Casey? He's better! every man he comes across that'll live longer than him!

Pat—Didn't you hear about it? Sure, he bought two life preservers last week.

How it Happened.

"That little scoundrel Noah, as he fastened down the last hatch, and the rain began to pour heavily on the roof of the ark. 'I know I'd forget something!'"

"What have you left, father?" asked him.

"Blame it all!" exclaimed the patriarch. "I've forgotten the missing link!"—Puck.

Worst Regulation.

"I have forbidden my employees to smoke cigarettes," said the automobile manufacturer.

"That's all right," replied the cigarette man. "We'll get even. We'll forbid our employees to squander their time and money on automobiles."

It's Aristocratic Taste.

"Doesn't your wife like automobiles?"

"She likes it well enough."

"But I've never seen her in the car with you."

"She'd like to go all right, but that blue-blooded bulldog of hers won't ride in anything but a limousine."

The Critic.

"How do you like the meter of my poem?" asked the poet when the magazine editor had finished reading it.

"There is plenty of gas in the thing, but I'm hanged if I can see any meter!" replied the heartless editor.

A Real Pessimist.

"If I'm the most pessimistic person I've ever met."

"Elucidate."

"It's letting his house fall apart because he's buying it on the installment plan. Says he won't risk a cent on repairs until he has it clear."

Worst Words!

Debutante—He said he would go through a raging flood just to look into my eyes.

Chaperon—When, last night?

Debutante—No; last night he phoned that it was raining too hard for him to call.—Judge.

Good Cause.

"What made you fall down on that suburban investment?"

"I guess it was because when I went to the bank I found I had lost my balance."

The Sort.

"I want to buy a carriage—a shay."

"What style, sir?"

"My wife says to show me one of them shay doovers our neighbor's girl."

Local News

Mrs. T. H. McGee was a Detroit visitor Tuesday.

J. H. Johnson has just had his big car completely overhauled and repainted.

James C. Grace attended the funeral of John Canary, deceased, at Detroit Monday.

Amos Otis expects to commence the construction of a new cottage on his lots fronting on Walled Lake next week.

Fred M. Warner's new 7-passenger Winton Six touring car arrived from the factory Saturday, and is certainly a beauty.

Gardens and gardening are occupying the attention of residents, and the spade, rake, and a package of garden seeds are common sights.

Wayne Pierson and wife and Henry Wallbahn and wife of Detroit, motored out Sunday and spent the day with John K. Walters and family.

Fred M. Warner is erecting two new modern residences in the Warner subdivision at the east of the village, both of which have already been taken.

Albert Havrane, Reed Hambleton, A. B. Coleman and Herman Goers were Windsor visitors Friday evening, and guests of the Masonic organization of that city.

J. C. McCowan of Novi has been compelled to retire from business, owing to poor health, and has sold his stock of goods to C. H. Walter of Northville. Mr. McCowan will spend the summer at Walled Lake.

Harry Groover of this Township, who plead guilty to the charge of disposing of mortgaged property, was sentenced to go days in the Detroit house of correction, in the circuit court at Pontiac, Monday.

The Farmington High School baseball team journeyed to Northville Wednesday afternoon to cross bats with the Northville team. The game was won by the latter team by a score of 11 to 7. Tomorrow afternoon Milford will play the local team here, and a good game is predicted.

Dust flew in clouds Sunday and housewives irrationally closed doors and windows in an effort to keep out the dust. It would indeed be difficult to even estimate the number of cars that passed through, but a conservative estimate would run up into the hundreds per hour during the afternoon hours.

Many comments were heard on the exceptionally large crowd in the village last Saturday evening. Machines and vehicles lined the streets, and the stores were all crowded. The moving picture theatre done a big business throughout the evening, as did the ice cream parlors.

The local greenhouse presents a very pleasing appearance these days, a goodly portion of which is devoted to tomato plants, that very nearly seem to grow before your eyes and there are several thousand of them. It may look like a nice cool spot, but when we paid Mr. Havrane's plant a visit a few days ago, the thermometer was comfortably settled at 120 degrees.

Dr. E. F. Holcomb is putting the finishing touches on his cottage at Walled Lake, and has a force of several men employed. When completed the cottage will be one of the most commodious and prettiest at the lake. The cottage, in addition to its roomy interior, will have a large porch supported by two massive stone pillars. Several varieties of floral plants and small trees are being set out.

Last Monday, April 20th, marked the 30th year that N. H. Power of Detroit, and well known here, has spent in the Railway Mail Service, which is indeed a record to be proud of, and he continues on the Michigan Central as one of the oldest men in the service. Other former Farmington men in the service at the present time are C. W. Botsford, formerly on the Pere Marquette, but now on the Grand Trunk, and Bert Thayer and Emory Hutton, both having runs on the Michigan Central.
