The next regular teacher's examination for Oakland county will be held at the Crofoot school on west Huron street, Pontiac, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 12, 13, 14, 1915.

Farmers around Rochester have discovered an oasis in this arid country. It is no more or less than their silos. They tap them at the bottom and draw off a quantity of the liquid. This liquor for a quick and efficient "jag" is said to be far superior to whiskey.

The recently enacted state law providing for a bounty of five cents on rats will become effective on August 24, and after that date township and city clerks will be expected to pay at that rate for all kinds of rats. It will be necessary for the whole rat to be brought to the office of the clerk who is expected to keep tab on the number and take charge of the disposal of the dead rodents.

State Fair Tickets

As usual, The Enterprise will again have State Fair tickets for sale for the coming fair, to be held September 6th to 15th, and at the same price as last year, 35 cents each, or 3 for $1.00. If purchased at the Fair gates the same tickets cost 50 cents each.

The Fair this year will see many improvements and additions, and will be far and away the biggest Fair ever held in Michigan.

The supply of tickets for sale at the reduced price is apparently plentiful, but just as last year, limited. We completely sold out last year, and will easily dispose of this year's supply, so would advise securing tickets early.

There will be a special Free Admission Day for children, September 11th, and children may secure these free admission tickets by calling at this office.

Art Lamb's force of men started work yesterday on Clarence Bickley's new house, which will be completed as rapidly as possible.

Right now, when hay fever is attacking its victims and when asthma is causing so much distress, there is a demand for Foley's Honey and Tar Compound—the remedy that brought relief to thousands in previous years. Don't continue to suffer. It will help you. Contains no opiates. Sold by T. H. McGee.

OFFICERS CAN'T FIND DYNAMITERS

All Efforts to Clear Mystery of Dynamite Plot Have Thus Far Failed

The attempted dynamiting of the Hemmingsway and Fair Cafe and Road House, located at Rough and Ready corner, in Livonia township about two weeks ago, still occupies the attention of the owners and the officers, but to date no trace of the persons who placed and lighted the explosive has been unearthed, and their identity remains as much in the dark as ever.

The dynamite with fuse and cap attached, four sticks in all, 2-4c and 2-6c, was found by George Cook, who is employed as cook at the cafe, and turned over to the proprietors who in turn turned it over to the officers. The fact that a fuse attached had been lighted, but in some manner extinguished does not in the least add to the comfort and security of the proprietors.

Many theories are advanced, but the most persistent, that the attempted dynamiting was the work of some crank, disgruntled in the recent wet and dry elections.

Another theory advanced is that the thing was carefully planned as a scare to the proprietors, and the fuse lighted and extinguished on purpose, in the hope that it would be discovered by the proprietors, who in fear of a second attempt would immediately vacate the premises.

From the way things now look, the affair is doomed to go down in history as an unsolved mystery.

HEROES IN EVERYDAY LIFE

Signs For 100 Cars

Carl Elv, proprietor of the Park Garage returned Saturday from Detroit, and while at the Ford plant in that city signed the 1916 Ford contract which calls for 100 cars.

The price for the new model has not yet been announced nor will it be known for another week yet. Neither has any announcement been made concerning the new farm tractors, further than that they will be built and ready for distribution this year.

The tractor is expected to practically revolutionize farm work, and there will undoubtedly be big demand for them, and prospective purchasers will do well to make their wants known early, as no idea of how large the available supply is going to be, has been given out.

Model Interurban Station

The new Interurban station of the Detroit United Lines in Detroit at the corner of Bates and Jefferson street, is one of which the city can well afford to be proud.

From the basement to the top-most office room, the comfort and convenience of the traveling public has been considered, and the writer spent a most pleasant hour last week on a tour of inspection of the interior. While some of the finishing touches are yet to be administered, the building even unfinished is a mighty comfortable looking spot to the tired traveler.

The waiting room is far ahead of any interurban station we have yet visited in any other city of anything like similar size, and is certainly appreciated by interurban patrons.

The Ford Motor Company Band composed of 55 musicians left July 20th to attend the expositions on the Pacific coast. They will give concerts wherever the Ford company operates branches or assembling plants.

INTERURBAN CAR BADLY WRECKED

Rear End Collision at Junction Caused by Auto Headlight Motorman Injured

A number of interurban passengers had a narrow escape from injury or worse last Saturday night at about eleven o'clock, when the second section car crashed into the rear end of the first section. The first section had arrived on schedule and taken the siding, and the second section following close behind, was just pulling in, when a powerful automobile headlight momentarily blinded the motorman of the latter car, and he was unable to see the rear of the first car, with the result that the two collided.

That no passenger was hurt, seems nothing short of marvelous in view of the fact that several persons were standing on the rear platform of the first car. The second car was badly wrecked, the entire front end being caved in to the smoker, and the controller box and numerous rods badly bent and twisted.

The car was in charge of conductor Arthur Coe, and motorman A. E. Sitzes, the latter of Pontiac, who had but recently entered the D. U. R. service.

Motorman Sitzes was the only person who required medical attention, one foot being badly crushed, and sustaining minor bruises. He was brought to the Owen House here, and attended by Dr. J. A. Miller. He was able to return to his home the following Sunday morning.

A few of the passenger on both cars were slightly scratched and shaken, but none hurt to any extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bell are this week entertaining the latter's sister and family, who arrived from their home at Flint the first of the week.
