ORDER HAD HIM "IN THE AIR"

Boatswain's Mate Considerably Muddled by Command That Was Entirely New to Him.

In all the naval services tradition is strong. As Chief Boatswain McCarthy, U. S. N., has shown in an article in "The Proceedings of the United States Naval Institute," the adherence to custom extends to the manner in which the boatswain's calls are varied for different occasions, and even in the old navy, at least, it extended to the way in which the officers gave their orders.

The language used in passing words was the vernacular of the sailor rather than academic English, and the officer who did not know that usually got poor results from the boatswain's mate, who had his own ideas about passing the word, and got muddled in interpreting an unusual order.

On one occasion, the officer of the morning watch gave this order: "Boatswain's mate, scrub down with rapidity." This was a new one, and after causing the officer to repeat the order three times, the boatswain's mate became desperate. He grabbed a deck bucket, and forced it into the hand of the nearest apprentice, whom he started on his way with a push that sent the youngster reeling, and followed him with this shout:

"Go to the captain of the hold and ask him for a bucketful of it! I never heard of anything to scrub a deck with but sand and lime, and I don't know anything about these new 'zoogy-moogies,' anyway."—Youth's Companion.

Why We Eat Men's Eggs

"I am a firm believer in advertising," said a great advertising expert. "I impute a great part of my own success to it."

Here the expert's sunburnt and healthy face was illuminated by one of his rare and charming smiles.

"When a duck lays an egg," he said, "she waddles back to the duck pond in indifferent silence. But when a hen lays an egg her frantic cackle makes it known."

"The hen advertises."

"And that, my dear friends, is why the world eats hens' eggs instead of ducks' eggs."

Off His Guard.

A detective in a Y. M. C. A. lecture in public school detection said:

"The criminal can't be always on his guard, of course. Well, when he's off his guard, then he gives himself away. Like the bank clerk, you know."

"A bank clerk was having his fortune told at a church fair. The pretty fortune teller, holding the young man's hand in hers, said:

"Beware of a dark woman!"

"Black Maria!" gasped the bank clerk, and he turned as pale as death."

Varied Designs in Dance Frocks

When one watches the dancers at the dinner or club dance it is hard to decide upon the most attractive gown or to pronounce judgment that will not straightaway be contradicted. Dance frocks are so varied in design that this variety adds a pleasure to these already failing to the lot of the onlooker.

But certain of the styles possess unusual fascination. Among them the gown made of lace or not, founces over underskirts of silk never fail of admiration.

In nearly all dancing gowns the waist line is high, the bodice very simple, and the arms uncovered.

But not all the pretty frocks are sleeveless. A flowered chiffon, made with a flaring skirt, is worn with a taffeta bodice having a square neck and elbow sleeves. These are finished with wide lace trills. The bodice ends cross at the front in surplice fashion and fasten at the sides under a point. The bodice is extended into a rosette at the front, reaching below the waist line, and needs no grille to be worn with it.

Points are not to be lost sight of in any of this season's apparel. Another effective dress has a plain bodice of lace with long sleeves terminating in small points over the hand. The lace is repeated in the skirt in a pointed yoke, to which a founce of muslin is set. Following the outlines of the yoke this founce forms a point at the back and front. Two similar founces below it are set on to a foundation skirt, and they also form a point at back and front. The fourth founce is set to the bottom of the underskirt, which is cut with a decided flare. The founces emphasize the skirt's flare, and this materials like organdie look wonderfully pretty made in this way.

A good and simple model for a dance frock is shown in the picture. It is made of mesaline satin and adjusted to the waist with shirings over cable cord. The bodice is of chiffon and velvet. Nothing looks as well with the dance frock as a lace point, cost as duffy and dainty as it is possible to make it.

Attractive Dress.

Make the bodice of your crepe de chine dress of flowered design and the skirt of the plain, then trim the bottom of the dress with the flowered material and you will have a most attractive dress.

All things come, to him who waits, but he is generally dead by the time they reach him.

CHARITY CLOSE TO HOME

Smith's Seemingly Generous Action Was Not Altogether a Matter of Philanthropy.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas remarked the other day that Philanthropy was not always actuated by a beautiful and generous heart, and told this story to back up his statement:

One afternoon a bunch of congenial spirits were talking about the various leading citizens of the town when a parsimonious party by the name of Smith was smilingly referred to "Speaking of Smith," interposed another of the bunch. "I met him yesterday afternoon going around town with a petition trying to collect money for a poor widow that she might pay her rent."

"What's that?" exclaimed the amazed crowd, all at whom knew Smith. "Collecting funds for a widow's rent! Watch out for the millennium at 6 a. m. tomorrow."

"Oh, no, it isn't as bad as that," explained the speaker. "You see, Smith owns the house that the widow lives in."

He Hadn't Been There.

"Mr. Daubyn said he would keep house while Mrs. Daubyn was away."

"Yes."

"He wrote glowing letters to her about his experiments in the kitchen and the fun he was having washing dishes."

"Flies!"

"When Mrs. Daubyn returned at the end of two weeks Mr. Daubyn, of course, met her at the station and escorted her home."

"And the sequel?"

"At the door he discovered that she had taken his latch key away with her the day she left."

"Old and Distinguished."

"Gerald," said the young wife, noticing how heartily he was eating, "do I cook as well as your mother did?"

Gerald put up his monocle and stared at her through it.

"Once and for all, Agatha," he said, "I beg you to remember that although I may seem to be in reduced circumstances now, I come of an old and distinguished family. My mother was not a cook."

His Stunt.

Fistbush—I see in the Indian army all orders are given in English.

Bensonhurst—Well, if the colonel wants some pate de foie gras for luncheon, how does he order it?

All things come, to him who waits, but he is generally dead by the time they reach him.
