There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than of other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Since it has been Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment, HALL'S CATARRH CURE, manufactured by F. J. Cheney Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood, and cures the surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for Circulars and testimonials.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tennum broke his arm last Saturday in sliding off a straw stack. Dr. Holcomb reduced the fracture and the boy is doing nicely.

Do you remember the night of November 9th, two years ago? We had one of the most severe snow storms of the winter, and there was much stock left in the fields, as no one thought of such a blizzard the day before.

Fred M. Warner received a shipment of trees last week which he is having set out on his property around town. He also had a row set outside of the walk along the town hall lot, which he donated to the township.

John R. Walters is suffering with a very bad eye. John and the "kids" were enjoying a frolic last Sunday evening when his little boy accidentally jabbed his finger into his father's eye, causing a very painful wound, and necessitating John's being confined in a darkened room the fore-part of the week. His father-in-law, Asa Roberts, has been caring for the store.

No Pontiac papers came to this village last Friday evening, as the car on which they were carried burned near Locke's Corner, a mile and a half from the Junction. The trolley wire broke and fell across the top in such a manner as to set it afire. The car was No. 7017, and George Biery was motorman. A number of passengers in the car were badly frightened, but none injured.

Mrs. Charles Reines is on the sick list.

A number from here took in the feather party at Clarenceville Tuesday evening.

Miss Charlotte Hallock of Detroit spent a few days at the home of G. C. Collins, this week.

The co-operation of the public is asked by Postmaster-General Burleson in the handling of Christmas mail. It is thought there will be a record-breaking rush during the holidays. Mail your Christmas parcels early, and be sure that they are properly addressed.

Miss Blanche Anglin, teacher of the Fairview school, one mile west of Farmington village, will hold a box social at the school on Wednesday, December 1st. The quilt, which the children have been selling tickets for, will be disposed of that evening.

When Stanley Cobb applied for a license to marry Margaret Cora, the marriage license clerk refused to issue the license thinking it was a joke. When convinced, however he shelled out. Pop Cora was said to have opposed the marriage, but when appealed to said, "Shucks!" and headed the list for the husking.—Ex

There will be a joint meeting of the National Potato association, and the Michigan State Potato association at Grand Rapids on December 1, 2 and 3, at which all the points of potato raising will be discussed by state and national speakers. There will also be a number of exhibits, with prizes running from $1.00 to $15.

Report all items of interest to this office. They will be appreciated, and each item helps make the paper more interesting. We cannot get all the news, but with your help we can get the lion's share, and that is what we wish to do. We want all the news that's news. If you know of an item or have a marriage, birthday or anniversary write-up, hand or send it in at once.

The next time a person appears in your office and asks that you subscribe to some benevolent or charitable institution, just ask for his or her credentials. Under the terms of a law enacted at the last session of the legislature all benevolent and charitable societies soliciting public support in counties outside the place where their institution is located are required to obtain a license from the state board of corrections and charities.

A Toast to the Horse

We don't know who wrote this toast to the horse, but it is a good one and worthy of being placed beside Senator Vest's famous eulogy on the dog:

"Here's to that bundle of sentient nerves, with a heart of a woman, the eye of a gazelle, the courage of a gladiator, the docility of a slave, the proud carriage of a king and the blind obedience of a soldier; the companion of the desert plain, that turns the moist furrows in the spring in order that all the world may have abundant harvest; that furnishes the sport of kings, that with blazing eye and distended nostril fearlessly leads our greatest, general through carnage and renown, whose blood forms one of the ingredients that go to make the ink in which all history is written, and who finally, in black trappings, pulls the proudest and the humblest of us to the newly soddied threshold of eternity."

A Waning Institution

The lively stable of a town used to be a very important institution, and the size and character of them were a very good index, at one time to the importance and quality of the place. But with the increasing number of automobiles, motorcycles, etc., the demand for lively stable rigs has dwindled down decidedly, and the keepers of livery and feed stables very seldom get a chance to roll in wealth unless the letting of horses and horse-drawn vehicles is supplemented by other enterprises. "Buggy riding used to be the acme of bliss and desire not so many years ago, and was the one sure road to courtship, if not to matrimony, but the time-honored method is much too slow in this age and while folks still go to weddings, funerals and christenings behind horses, they don't do even this if there is a devil-wagon to go instead.

The decline and languor of the lively business is the same everywhere. Still the old horse will never go entirely out of vogue. Like the poor, horses will be with us for some time yet. There still are folks so plebeian that they like the feeling of driving behind something alive, and which, while it may be liable to kick up, will not blow up. You generally know the worst-about-a-horse, as what it will do under a given condition is not much of a mystery.

We print auction bills and print them right. The prices are reasonable too. Let us have that job of yours.

This is the time of the year when fall buying is at its height.

There is a tendency on the part of some people to think they can buy to better advantage without seeing the goods, so send their money out of town. You may be able to save a little on some things, but it is an unsafe habit to get into, and the community, including yourself, will be the loser in the end. It is not only the business people who suffer because some Chicago corporation is getting the money they ought to get. The village and surrounding country will prosper (other things being equal) proportionately as the inhabitants stand together, work together and spend their money at home.

Reading One's Own Books.

Cultivated men and women have always counted good books among their most valued possessions, and one can not believe that this taste can be sacrificed without definite loss to our civilization. The spoken word can never supplant the written word; and in fact the present tendency is all toward substituting print for speech. Nor can reading in public places take the place of reading one's own books in the quiet of one's home. Books that are never read patiently on the reader's leisure; and to have just the book one wants; when one wants it, is and must remain one of the supreme luxuries of a cultivated life.

Books, too, when personally owned, gather around themselves a wealth of personal associations. The very binding, paper and titlepage recall the conditions under which the book came into our possession. As we open its pages we remember the last time we read it, the place and circumstances, and the people with whom we discussed it. Books have personality; and they must always remain the warm friends of their possessors.—Atlantic Monthly.

Age of Oysters.

As the result of examinations of the surface lamellae of the shells of over six hundred oysters of known age, and of various ages from eighteen months to six years, made by Miss A. L. Massey, and noted in the "Scientific Investigations" under the scientific investigation of the relation between age and the number of surface lamellae, or growth rings. Miss Massey states that an oyster of eighteen months or two months more appears to possess at least two rings, but may have as many as five; one of three summers has at least two rings, but may have six. A four-year-old oyster may have only three rings, or may possess seven or eight.

How to Tell a Train's Speed.

Count the clicks of the wheels on one rail (because joints alternate) for 20 seconds, and the result will be the miles per hour the train is running. There are 176 30-foot rails in 5,280 feet. The train, say, is traveling at 45 miles per hour. It covers 125.5 rails in one minute, or 2.25 rails in one second, which, multiplied by 20, equals 45 rails in 20 seconds, or 45 miles per hour. If 32-foot rails are used the results would be 40 rails in 20 seconds at 45 miles per hour, but it is fairly accurate and can be done easily with a little practice.

Made Over Again.

Mrs. Jennie Miner, Davidson, Ind., writes: "I can truthfully say Foley's Cathartic Tablets are the best I ever used. They are so mild in action, I feel like I had been made over again." They keep stomach sweet, liver active and bowels regular. They banish constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache.

Constipation, if Neglected, Causes Serious Illness

Constipation, if neglected, leads to almost innumerable complications affecting the general health.

Many cases of typhoid fever, appendicitis and other severe diseases are traceable to prolonged clogging of the bowels. Regarding the effects of constipation, C. E. Ayers, 636 Madison St., Montpelier, Vt., says:

"I was afflicted with constipation many and bitter years, and at times became so bad I would become unconscious. I have been found in that condition many times. Physicians did not seem to be able to do any good. I felt that I was becoming weaker and for days at a time could do no work. Not long ago I got a box of Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets, and after using them found I had never tried anything that acted in such a mild and effective manner. I believe I have at last found the remedy that suits my case."

Thousands of people are suffering from habitual constipation and while possibly realizing something of the danger of this condition, yet neglect too long to employ proper curative measures until serious illness often results. The advice of all physicians is, "keep your bowels clean," and it's good advice.

Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 25 cents a box containing 25 doses. If not found satisfactory, your money is returned.
