THE "MANONTHGROUND"

Not so very long ago, when the government stepped into the fight between the mail order house and the rural merchant, and organized the rural free delivery system and the parcel post many a good merchant threw up his hands and calmly expired—in a business way. But the wise man, the man who used his head, began to figure what he could get out of the parcel post and the free delivery that would give him a chance to compete with the mail order house. Like all great inspirations, the answer was simple: "Do as the mail order man does. Get a mailing list and go after the business." And the "manonthground" got busy. In the first place he had his local paper which circulated throughout his territory each week. He advertised with catchy specials, and got people to write in for them, sending them out by parcel post. He got a list of every buyer in his territory, went to the newspaper office and had some attractive circulars printed, and circularized his name. After a while he had a complete mail order list of satisfied customers. People found they could get goods right at home, practically, for the same money they could buy them for in the large cities, and goods came quicker. There were no waits, no broken packages nor missing articles. In fact the "manonthground" proved to them that he had a mail-order house right at their doors that could deliver the goods as cheaply and quicker than the catalogue houses. And the "manonthground" got the business. The lesson in this fable is quite plain to every merchant who reads it. The enormous business of the catalogue houses has been built on advising, business methods hustle and stick-to-itiveness. With every advantage on his side he can hold up and increase business. All the "manonthground" has to do is to be "Johnny-on the spot."

BEGINNING TO BUBBLE.

With the closing of the year the political situation is beginning to warm up for the national campaign of 1916, and soon the great fight will be on in earnest. Both the big political parties have fixed the dates for their national conventions, the Republican on June 7th, at Chicago, and the Democratic on June 14th at St. Louis.

There will be a presidential preference primary in Michigan on April 3rd next, but as yet no candidates have filed nominating petitions with the secretary of state, which the law says must be done not later than March 1st, in order to have the name printed on the primary ballot. It takes only 100 names to get the name on the ballot.

At the primary on April 3rd the candidate receiving the most votes will receive the support of the Michigan delegation of that political party at the national convention, if the delegates are governed by the result of the advisory primary vote.

The delegates to the national convention are chosen in the same manner as in other years. The county, district and state conventions will attend to this and the people as a whole will not vote on the delegates, but the popular vote simply serves as an instruction as to how the delegates shall vote when they reach the national conventions.

After a two weeks session congress adjourned last Friday for the holidays. The emergency revenue was extended until December 31, 1916, and was immediately signed by President Wilson. The session will resume January 4th, when the administration legislative program will be taken up in earnest.
