The ground hog certainly knew his business, when he saw his shadow on February 2nd, and returned to his winter quarters.

Farmington merchants want your business and they are telling you things each week in their ads that would interest you. It's up to you to read what they have to say. Don't you think so?

Ex Gov. and Mrs. F. M. Warner arrived home from their Florida trip last Sunday, having returned by way of Washington, D. C., where they and Ex-Senator Freeman and wife, of Flint, were guests of the Michigan Congressman at a luncheon.

Mrs. Howard Chamberlain, of North Farmington, died last Sunday. Missie Hallett was married to Howard Chamberlain about a year ago, and left a little son six days old, besides her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hallett, two sisters, and two brothers, to mourn her untimely death.

Last Wednesday M. T. Crawford's automobile was struck by a street car while he was driving in Detroit. The machine was quite badly smashed, but the occupants of the car, Mrs. Crawford and two sisters, Miss Coghlan and Miss Violet Hazelton, and Miss O'Connor escaped injury. Mr. Crawford received some minor injuries.

One year ago you could buy aniline dyes for 40 cents a pound. If you don't think it costs more to publish a newspaper with the present high prices for everything that enters into the manufacture of paper, just try to buy a pound of the above at present. You will pay $20.00 for it and that is only one of eight or ten of the materials used in the producing of printing paper.

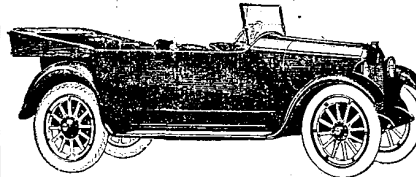

While descending the stairway at the rear of the Farmington Lumber & Coal Co's office last Thursday, C. H. Ely missed his footing and fell forward to the bottom of the steps. In trying to save himself Mr. Ely struck the palm of his right hand on a steam-gauge of the boiler and cut a deep gash in the fleshy part of the hand, requiring a stitch to be taken to unite the flesh.
