

IMPORTANT NEWS NOTES OF A WEEK

The Faddist in the Schoolroom.
Thus far we have been told not to meddle with the course of study. We, the laymen, must keep our hands off and let the professional educator arrange the curriculum. And as a result of this policy, the faddist has been given place, until the printed course of study resembles the menu card of a metropolitan restaurant. Modern, every teacher has become a psychologist, and the beautiful science of child study has been wounded and torn by thousands of clumsy, awkward amateurs, whose additions to this "course" of child study are beginning to give the earnest, sensible man, says S. P. Orth, in the Atlantic, "of course it is all dealt out in homoeopathic doses. There are pellets of anatomy and physiology, of painting and sculpture, of psychology and philosophy, of some arithmetic and some grammar. And all the pellets are sugar-coated, for the whole purpose of the theory seems to command that the teacher make all these things easy for the pupil. So we have all kinds of patent devices for making the child's pathway one of velvet. There are wonderful new text-books that have all the lessons analyzed and classified, leaving very little for exertion. There are charts, multi-colored, that show the child the pictures and cabinets that illustrate the charts. Everything is put into the pupils' hands. Genuine effort seems to be discouraged."

The spirit of the "religulous" teacher who was against letting the devil have all the good tunes animates a Chicago minister, who has arranged for a report picture show as a regular attraction at his church, and has already given his first entertainment. His expectation is to attract children and innocent young people, who have been lured by nickel exhibitions that are demoralizing and degrading, of which there are many in Chicago. His idea, explains the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin, is to provide "music and moving pictures and all the decent fun that can be found in a nickel theatre," picking out for illustration stories entertaining to the young, and to counter the temptation to go to bad shows by offering a good show, which they will like just as well and which it will be better for them to attend. This clerical innovator is Rev. Hugh T. Kott of the Fuller Avenue Presbyterian church, and the probability is that the example which he has set in this matter will be widely followed.

Boston is not feeling as cheery as it did a week ago. What has happened? Nothing much, only there's to be a collision of an unknown dark lord with the sun, and with it the termination of life on the earth says the Boston Herald. Prof. Percival Lowell says it; and what is more gloomy, that the catastrophe will be prophesied 14 years before it occurs! The pleasure of anticipation in this case leaves much to be desired. For one doesn't like to wait with this prospect. In view of what he must do, he would rather have it hanging over one; but, since this great astronomer has mentioned the ominous certainty of some wandering dark star ultimately upsetting the solar system, what's the use of making plans? Why build the canal, why worry about Susie's teeth, or why long for a $10,000 motor car?

The little South American republic of Ecuador is showing notable progressiveness. With a population not greatly exceeding a million, Ecuador is making the best of its natural advantages. An instance is seen in the recent completion of a railroad line connecting Quito, the capital, with the Pacific coast. Owing to topographical difficulties it had been thought that communication of this kind was impossible. But the Ecuadorians seem to have overcome the obstacles, and their pack and enterprise are likely to be rewarded. The new road will open up the interior for valuable development and will tend to important development. Moreover, it will be one of the side lines to that great international road which at some time, possibly not very remote, will unite the "three Americas."

Scientists now profess to have discovered that the first born children of a marriage are more likely to fall victims of tuberculosis than the later born offspring, where the tendency to this matter of inheritance. If this is true of tuberculosis it may be true of other maladies that come by descent, in which case it would be well to choose to be the latest arrival in the family.

* Something like an economic revolution is threatened when our great corn crop, now risen to 2,500,000,000 and 3,000,000,000 bushels a year, is becoming too dear in price to be used profitably in fattening hogs that sell at six dollars the hundred pounds. It looks as if the American farmer was reaching out to become the plutocrat of the world.

"Marriage is a woman's duty," says Harper's Weekly. Well, there are no solitary shirts.

SUDDEN FRENZY SEIZED HIM

SUFFERING FROM ACUTE MANIA HE KILLED HIS ASYLUM FRIEND.

STRUCK DOWN AT WORK.

Facts and Fancies Gathered Here and There About the State of More or Less Importance Briefly Told.

Alex. Ferguson, an inmate of the northern Michigan insane asylum, sent there from Charlevoix for alcoholism late Friday afternoon, killed Isaac Fuller, a fellow patient, by striking him over the head with a portion of a limb from the asylum orchard.

"He talked to me, so I killed him in self-defense," said Ferguson, just before he was locked up in one of the cells for inciting to riot, and his victim was removed to the asylum morgue.

Both men, who were tending trees, were under the charge of George Newman, an attendant, at the time of the tragedy. As soon as the blow was struck, Newman hurried to Fuller's defense, but the man was already dead, though Ferguson landed a second blow before he could be restrained.

Dr. Munson, of the institution, says Ferguson is suffering from acute mania. He had been released as cured on Feb. 10, but returned to the institution of his own accord.

Fuller was suffering from melancholia, says the authorities, will be confined for life in the institution, without trial.

The State Treasury.
The state treasury will be "broken" before August 1. On or before that date the general fund will show a deficit and unless the members of the legislature take steps to fill up the gap the deficit will exist until January 1, 1914.

On February 28, when the state treasury made its last monthly report, there was a balance of $240,000 in the general fund. Figuring on a 10 percent conservative basis there will be received in tax money about $110,000.

The receipts from other sources may run as high as $250,000.

The current expenditures in the past have averaged about $100,000. There is no reason to believe that they will run below this sum during the coming summer months. This would total enough to exhaust the general fund by August 1, with no more receipts in sight.

Looking along this line, the worst case prospect presents itself to the state officers and taxpayers of a deficit in the general fund on January 1, 1914, of more than $100,000.

Pere Marquette Wreck.
Two persons were injured when the Marquette passenger train No. 27 was wrecked at Appleton Junction, about two miles west of Port Huron, by the breaking and dropping down of a wake beam, which was struck by the smoker and day coach. Edwin R. Wyman, of Armada, was seriously bruised and cut about the face, but will recover, and a woman, whose name was not secured, sustained a sprained leg. Wyman is at the hospital and the woman is on her way to Bay City on a later train.

The train was running at a high rate of speed when the beam broke and the engine dropped into the ditch. The engine and day coach were torn up, the engine being crushed under the wheels of the day coach. The day coach was also derailed, but did not get far from the rails, and the passengers were not hurt. The engine and baggage car were not derailed.

Arrived Too Late.
Reaching Delta, Col., to take charge of and bring back to Vicksburg the cargo which disappeared from that place 40 years ago, a ship arrived too late. After parking his trunk to make the journey west the train made a sharp turn and the cargo was lost. The cargo was a burning barrel, which was lost. The cargo was a burning barrel, which was lost.
