TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS. Every week this paper or any tother, has typographical errors; and there is always someone ready to laugh mirthlessly over it, hold the paper up to scorn and say "a blacksmith could do a better job with both hands tied, and pro ceed to bawl out the editor publicly. The editor, "being meek in spirits and lowly," grins a sun grin as if he liked it, because he knows the utter futility of explaining. Then he goes back to the shop and bites nail or two, or eats a wooly worm to relieve his feelings; and finally wonders how his tormentors would feel should he turn critic and point out the typographical errors so to speak, in the make up of the hilarious ones. Furrinstance: "Hon. Jehu Junkens shaves him self, and last Sunday appeared at church with a patch of unshaven whiskers under the angle of his jaw the size of a grown man's thumb; Sis Stiggins had her hat on crooked and one shoestring on her switch showed through what little real hair she had left. The underskirt of the belle of the village hung on one side a full inch below the botton of her dress; Amri Toots, one of the best known city gents, walked down the aisle with a long raveling hanging to his coat tail; Old Eben ezer Stone had blacked 'the front compartment of his shoes until he could see his reflection in them, while his shoe heels had not had a treatment since he bought them last summer a year ago, and they bore traces and the oder of the baruvard; Billy B. Damm, who ordin arily doesn't give three whoops for anything and doesn't care who knows it, blushed a rosy red when, walking with his best girl, he pro duced a washrag from his pocket instead of his handkerchief; Miss Peachie Peacherino, who is risin thirty-five and near sighted, wafted a kiss to a traveling man getting on a car, under the impression that it was her brother, who departed on the same common carrier.

As the poet remarks, we are all our critters and prone to errors of make-up even as the spatks fly up-ward; and all good and true editors instead of impaling the kit and bundle on their harpoon to get good and even once and for all, will again the next week smile their feeble sun-grin when they are pub licly roasted and let it go at that.

And editor hasn't much sense anyway. That's why he is an editor.—Ex.

A local newspaper is absolutely necessary to any community. It is the home paper that keeps the peo-ple of the community in touch with with each other, by giving them the news of their own neighbor-hood and county. They keep the local pride and progressive spirit aroused, and in various ways are worth far more to a community than a community ever spends on them. The daily paper with its large news service and quicker facilities, may, in some respects, facilities, may, in some respects, overshadow the weekly, but the weekly home paper fills a place in the hearts of the people that a daily cannot fill It comes to your home as an old and tried friend, white the daily enters as a stranger.

At the public meeting of the Ladies' Literary club at the Town Hall last week it was suggested by the consense of the postes decreased. I such Mclermott, executor the professional support of the consense of the postes decreased at either end of town of Grand River avenue reading on op of the sound allowance of his final account, adistribution of two assets of suppostes discs, 'Please,' and "Thank You," In our opinion this would be the best means of regulating the strength of the postes of the supposed. Humán nature is defain of command, whereas, a request will invariably be complied with in a spirit of pleasure. Such 'placards' would cost but a trifle, and we be lieve, save us no end of trouble.
