THE OFFICE, THE PARTY, AND THE MAN

WILLIAM H. HILL, Candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator August 29th.

William H. Hill is a Republican and it is as a thorough-going, uncompromising Republican that he offers himself at the Primaries August 29 for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

But there are certain characteristics of Mr. Hill's Republicanism that he wishes thoroughly understood. He is neither a radical, nor a conservative; he is at least of all he is a reactionary.

By radicalism Mr. Hill understands action not based on good judgment and common sense; by conservatism, a lack of action that amounts to timidity, failure to grasp new conditions; by reactionism, no action at all—stagnation.

Mr. Hill is progressive in his practice and application of Republican theory and doctrine.

By that he means that he recognizes new facts, new conditions, when they arise and believes that theory and principles of government should be adapted to fit these new facts and conditions.

There should always be progress. One cannot stand still—molding and adapting principles to the new problems that arise, but never altering the fundamentals. It is this sort of Republicanism that Mr. Hill practices and will practice.

That he has the courage of his convictions was proved in 1912 when, believing that the conditions of that hour demanded it, he followed Colonel Roosevelt. He ran for Congressman-at-large and polled the largest vote, next to Roosevelt, running ahead of his ticket 20,000, and exceeding the vote of the Republican nominee for governor by 5,000.

Mr. Hill remains unshaken in his belief in the soundness of the progressive Republican theories. Those who believe in progressivism as a necessary element in all political theory and who supported Mr. Hill so generously in 1912 may rest assured that at the same ideal of government for which he stood at that time will actuate his conduct if he is nominated for United States Senator or elected on the Republican ticket.

Support him as you did four years ago and it will mean that the advances of progress and humanity will have a friend in court. The Primaries are August 29th. Get out and place an X before the name of Wm. H. Hill.

A Man of Big Affairs for Public Service

With a Record of no Failures, Frank B. Leland Offers His Varied and Extensive Business Experience and Equipment to His Native State. Wayne County Solid for Him—the First Candidate Since Pingree to Enjoy Such a Distinction.

Governorship Question Frank B. Leland

(An editorial from the Charlotte Tribune of August 9, the publication that so loyally backed Lieutenant-Governor Dickson for governor, is now supporting Mr. Leland.)

With Lieut. Gov. L. D. Dickinson, Eaton county's former candidate for the gubernatorial race, out of the field for governor, the voters will be turning to one or another of the candidates for the place, and Frank B. Leland of Detroit seems to meet with considerable favor in local circles and is also making strong gains throughout the state. Wayne County will give Mr. Leland almost solid support as at a recent meeting of various factions it appeared that all were united on him.

Mr. Leland was born on an Oakland County farm and today owns and operates the farm on which his boyhood was spent. He worked his way through the University of Michigan, and has made good as a lawyer in Flint and Detroit. He has been twice elected a regent of the University of Michigan, which office he has filled with credit and distinction as is evidenced by the great support he is receiving from the thousands of University alumni.

Mr. Leland organized a savings bank, of which he has been president for 12 years, and is a thoroughly capable business man who would make a governor strong enough to bring about improved methods in the state's system of taxation and expenditures, concerning which he has expressed himself in no uncertain terms.

Mr. Leland is a man of high ideals, undaunted courage and tireless industry, and his election to the office of governor would mean the inauguration of many important improvements in the state, including a reduction in expenses, which would be a relief to the overburdened taxpayers of the state. Mr. Leland is not tied to any of the factions or interests, and, as governor, would be in a better position to give the state better service than if he had alliances with the past and promises for the future. He has no elements of weakness to defend or explain.

Michigan needs an honest man for governor and one of ability, courage, broad-mindedness and good common sense.

Such a man is FRANK B. LELAND.

(Detroit News Editorial Aug. 5, '10).
Now that the Wayne county and Detroit republican organizations are pledged to Frank B. Leland's candidacy for governor, his chances of securing the nomination have been greatly improved. Detroit has not produced a governor since Pingree—and Michigan admits that he was a good one. But Mr. Leland has more than a geographical claim to consideration. He combines the education and training of a lawyer with those of a business man, and is thus fitted not only to give Michigan that "business administration" which of late years has been so clamorously desired by certain groups, but also to give expert attention to legislation.

Mr. Leland has never been an office seeker. His election as regent of the University of Michigan in 1907, and again in 1913, gave him a place of honor rather than of political influence. It was a position in which executive capacity was needed, and Mr. Leland showed he had.

In another field of public service he has won popular esteem—the fight against tuberculosis. There he has shown fine qualities of organization and leadership. Michigan republicans will do well to consider the qualifications of the Wayne county candidate, and to compare them with those of other aspirants for the nomination. It would be a mistake to choose him merely because Detroit may feel that this city is entitled to consideration. But if his record and his abilities, his broad-mindedness and his freedom from factionalism appeal to the party, it should not let minor considerations influence it.

For Prosecuting Attorney

It is not without full knowledge of the duties and responsibilities of one of the largest and wealthiest counties of the state, that I seek this office.

The matter of handling a vast number of criminal cases, in approximately ninety per cent of which a plea of guilty is entered, is only a part of the services which can and should be rendered to the County by its Prosecuting Attorney if he would render the same service to the County as to private clients.

There are millions of dollars of property rights in this county to be protected, and there is opportunity for a closer scrutiny of the taxation of property and the expenditure of public moneys.

This county should have SERVICE and VALUE RECEIVED, not merely on paper or during campaign time, but ALL THE TIME.

This service I am prepared to render, and will render if nominated and elected.

This is the first time I have sought political office and I assure you I am free from all conflicting factions, interests and political combinations which might tend to interfere with the free and honest performance of the duties of the office. As to my reputation for integrity, fairness and legal ability you are referred to the members of the Oakland County Bar, my clients throughout Oakland County and others who know or have had business or professional dealings with me.

Your support at the August Primaries will be appreciated.
