SOME CRITICISM

We have received some criticism on our policy during the recent campaign of absolute neutrality upon the state-wide Prohibition and

"whome rule" propositions.

We have also been accorded some very commendatory remarks upon Bulkley's Welch automobile. that policy, both from dry and wet

But criticism or commendation has little of material value in the payment of bills or the support of day with her parents. a family-cents going much further than sentiment.

The criticisms bring us, however, to a realization that a few comments family were Sunday visitors in on the subject would not be out of Farmington. place at this time.

In the first place the editorial and news columns of any news- Mrs Harry Fuller. paper and the advertising columns are two destinctly seperate departments. Every newspaper has as its "stock in trade" white space to sell—without which none could exist—not to set forth the editor's opinion or in any way to reflect that opinion, and it should be known by every reader that the editor does not necessarily give indorsement to any statement made in his advertising columns. The receipts from advertising sold are absolutely necessary to pay a family, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Capens of publication could exist on the J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harley no publication could exist on the Kahrl and Percy Irwin, of Windsor, absolutely necessary to pay the revenue from subscriptions only, and if a millionaire should attempt that impossible feat he would soon be bankrupt. Hence it is that newspaper space is sold to persons who have a message they wish to con-vey to the readers of that paper, and the advertiser, not the editor, is responsible for statements therein so long as they are couched in in proper language and do no wrong to others.

The newspaper man's advertisng space is for sale the same as he merchaus's dry goods, groceries shoes, or other merchandise.

In the recent campaign we considered that we were in duty bound to give both sides a chauce to be space was long as the space was Arthur and wife.
