Parochial Cage Recruiting 'Scores Again' In Area

Parochial recruiting habits have once again stirred up an ever increasing problem in Observerland.

Catholic Central has for the second time in two seasons diped into area cage talent. The Dave Harding incident apt Hurston High after last football season caused much debate in the area.

Farmington Harrison was the blunt of the CC attack s season.

Harrison Coach Bob Sutter had one returning cager in forward Dave Cleary. That is, he did until Bernard lowicki of Catholic Central got hold of him this past

"Dave asked me if it would be all right if he attended the baskethall clinic at Catholic Central along with our summer program," stated Sutter. "At the time I thought it couldn't do anything but build up his baskethall prowess.

"I goes I was wrong.
"I got to thinking about this Catholic Central summer basketbail clinic and I can really see how kids can get swayed their was being a greater than the swayed their was being a created but come August, his parents informed me that they had gone to some of the practices there, had talked to Holowicki and it was their and their son's judgment that he should transfer to Catholic Central.

However, the state of the control of the control of the would got more exposure for a college scholarship and that he would have no problem in obtaining one for him.
"I was really shocked by the whole thing.
"You really hate to lose good kids and when you are attempting to build a good program it really is a blic. Sure, Dave might have realized we were going to have an off season, but what if every kid starred thishing this way.

"I have always encouraged kids to attend camps in the summer but no longer at Catholic Central. I don't go this recruiting route.
"We like to zet our own kids, work with them and Churchill High basketball Coach Pat Montagano, a Western Six foe of Sutter's Harrison crew, heard of what happened and stated, "There will be no way any of the kids I work with are going to attend that Catholic Central enne."

Chalk up another one for the parochial way of handling prep recruiting—an item that is someday going to have to be changed.

Cage Predictions Right On

The of moustache twirler in Observerland has struck

The of moustache twirler in Observerland has struck it rich early in the prep eage season.

The opening Tuesday of the 1973-74 campaign saw your sports editor record three wins in picking Garden City West and John Glenn to win and inexperienced Clarence-ville to lose.

Three right, none wrong.
Then came the first Friday night of hardcourt action.

A 12-2 mark sparkled and for the opening night of a question mark season, it was a bit startling. Franklin's surprising loss to Wayne Memorial and Plymouth Canton's setback to Woodhaven were the only two wrong guesses.

Here we go, a 15-2 start into a new season, with hopes to improve on last year's 140-61 mark.

Eat your heart out, "Swami."

What Are They Doing Now?

What are the past two seasons' All-Observer basket-ball squads doing now? Off the 1917-12 card, Franklin's Tim Dietz is in year No. 2 on the University, of Florida varsity basketball squad, Tampa campus; Beatley High's Tim Bollio is out at Idabo playing varsity basketball and studying forestry; Bob Schaner of Redford Union is in the Air Force; and Dave Jackson from Garden City East is on the Michigan State University cage lineup.

jurior and senior year, is on the University of Michigan varsity roster.

The All-Area 1972-73 card is rounded out by Harrison's Jeff Sieloff, who is playing varsity ball at Michigan Tech; Dave Carlington of Westland John Glenn is playing on junior varsity level at Eastern Michigan University. Churchil's Phil Damaska injured his shoulder bone in the next to the last football clash at Albion and is sitting out the beginning of the cage season; and Franklin's Kevin Kaseta is still wearing the "red and blue" in his senior Patriot stin'.
