Auto Club Warns State Motorists Of Holiday Highway Driving Peril

Motorists are expected to stay close to home this Thanksgiving weekend — and close to danger — since statistics show that about 75 percent of holiday deaths occur within 25 miles of the victim's residence, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Since Thanksgiving is traditionally the time for short trips to see family and friends, it is potentially the most lethal of all holiday periods," said Fred Rehm, Auto Club general manager.

He noted that although motorists travel about 50 percent fewer miles over the 102-hour Thanksgiving holiday period than on major summer holiday weekends, traffic deaths usually are as high or even higher than summer holiday totals.

"This trend appears to be caused by the fact that most motorists are driving near their homes and tend to be less alert and more careless in familiar surroundings," Rehm said.

Twenty-nine persons were killed on Michigan roads last Thanksgiving weekend as compared to 28 traffic fatalities over Memorial Day weekend, 13 during the July 4th period and 27 over Labor Day weekend.

"We urge all motorists traveling during the Thanksgiving weekend — especially those who will be near home — to drive with extra caution and to avoid overindulging in alcohol," said Rehm.

The Thanksgiving weekend officially begins at 6 p.m. today (Wednesday) and ends at midnight Sunday.

A round trip of 200 miles should be the maximum one-day travel distance for any motorists. If a motorist starts at 8 a.m. and allows four hours to drive 200 miles round trip by freeway, he can spend five hours at his destination and still be home by dark. On non-freeway roads, the same 200 miles takes between five and six hours.

Motorists driving through downtown Detroit on Thanksgiving Day should time their trips to avoid traffic from two scheduled events.

The J.L. Hudson Parade, which starts at 9:30 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day and ends about 45 minutes later, is expected to draw more than 500,000 spectators to Woodward Avenue. Large crowds also will turn out for the Detroit Lions' Washington Redskins football game, which begins at 12:15 p.m.

Travelers planning trips by air will find most flights to and from New York City already filled. Space still remains on flights to the Caribbean and southwest U.S., but resort accommodations are reported as booked solid in the Las Vegas, San Diego and Tucson areas.

If weather permits, several Michigan ski resorts will be open with limited facilities by Thanksgiving. Skiers should call ahead to a resort before making a trip, however. The resorts expected to be in operation include: East Michigan — Mt. Maria, near Spruce; Southeast Michigan — Pine Knob, near Clarkston.
