SC Students Span The Ages

The more than 6,000 people taking college credit classes at Schoolcraft this fall are, on the average, 23 years old. Collectively, they've lived nearly 150,000 years, proving you're never too old to learn! These and other facts were revealed in an analysis of the college performed recently which showed that two of every three students are 25 years or under. The remaining 33 per cent of the student body range from age 25 to 70. Although only 225 students are exactly age 23, that is the average age. However, the typical student is 18 to 20, male, and a resident of the college district. Persons 18 to 20 also carry more than half the credit hours taken by all Schoolcraft students.

Approximately 2,000 students taking community services classes were excluded from this survey, but plans are being made to include them in future studies.

The college also compiled some interesting results from a survey that was given to the student population at Schoolcraft's Center at Garden City. The majority of the students there are in their 25s and 30s. They are primarily evening students and maintain some 70 different occupations during the day.

Most of the people attending classes at the center live in Garden City and Westland. However, many live in Livonia, Inkster, Plymouth and Dearborn Heights. About 75 per cent of the students surveyed are enrolled at Garden City only. The other 25 per cent are enrolled both at Garden City and on the Livonia campus.

Nearly 93 per cent of the students sampled are attending Schoolcraft's center at Garden City because of its convenient hours and location.

Interestingly the college has two special students aged 15, and eight others who are 16. With an age range from 15 to 70, then, one Schoolcraft College represents opportunities and programs for a community that spans the ages!

Edison Names McChesney To New Post

Detroit Edison has appointed Hugh C. McChesney director of the company's safety and medical services division.

McChesney has been director of safety services and assumes similar responsibilities in the company's medical services division.

McChesney, of 19683 Greythorne Trail, Farmington Hills, joined Detroit Edison in 1947 as a customer office representative in the marketing department. In 1952 he became a safety technician in the safety department.

He was named administrator of safety in 1966 and five years later was appointed director of safety services. He is a Wayne State University graduate with a bachelor science degree in business administration.

McChesney is a certified safety professional and is a member of the American Society of Safety Engineers.

He is vice president of Greater Detroit Safety Council and past president of the Michigan Safety Conference.

6 From Area Gain Honors In Law School

Six Observerland residents were among 64 persons who received juris doctor degrees from Wayne State University's Law School at WSU's winter commencement in Detroit's Cobo Arena.

Earning their law degrees were Robert M. Cary, 25383 Leestock Drive, Farmington; Charles M. Gayney, 40355 Plymouth Road, Plymouth; Robert C. Law, 17391 Huntington, Redford Township; Douglas C. Russell, 29248 Manchester, Westland; Rodney W. Sabourin, 37590 Dale Drive, Westland; and Alvin C. Sallen, 28870 Still Valley Drive, Farmington Hills.

Wayne State President George E. Gullen Jr. awarded 2,881 degrees to graduates of the university's 11 schools and colleges.

9 Attain College Honorary

Nine Schoolcraft College students were recently sworn in as members of Phi Theta Kappa, a national honorary society for two-year college students.

The new members include Warren T. Brown of Garden City, Ann E. Corbin of Westland, Renne Landreville of Northville, and Joseph Davis, Lawrence G. DiVito, Kay L. Grismer, Roland Jakmowicz, Susan McFalls and Jan P. Thiemann, all of Livonia.

Membership in Phi Theta Kappa is the highest academic honor that a community college student can attain. Members were selected by a faculty committee which only considered students who have completed two semesters full time and maintained a minimum 3.0 grade point average.

Initiates were sworn in by Harley Keeling, a Schoolcraft student and member of Phi Theta Kappa. The new members signed the society's record book and were presented with a white rose symbolizing the virtue of purity.

Jean Pike, sponsor of the chapter, said that society activities have included tutorial services, reading for the blind and assisting at registration.

ROBERT A. STOESEL has been appointed to the management group of National Bank of Detroit's Metro West Regional Banking Center headquarters in Farmington. An NBD employee 4 1/2 years, Stoessel is a commercial lending officer. He graduated from Notre Dame and holds a master's degree in business from the University of Missouri.

VURAL UYGUR, 31870 Kingswood Lane, Farmington, has been promoted from vice president to senior vice president of Giffels Associates, Inc., Detroit-based architectural, engineering and planning firm. He joined the firm in 1961 and is responsible for all architectural, engineering and planning disciplines.
