

Madonna trains fire fighters

Madonna College in Livonia is attempting to bridge a gap between supply and demand by offering a training program for fire fighters.

The demand for trained fire fighters is 20 times greater than the supply, says Dr. Don W. Hickman, assistant dean and director of Madonna's program.

"I believe Madonna has the only bachelor degree program in fire protection in Michigan," he said.

Firemen from the entire metropolitan area have studied fire protection and occupational safety at Madonna. While some are working on undergraduate degrees in fire protection, many are supplementing their knowledge and enhancing their chances for promotion.

Harold Hoyt, a captain and 20 year veteran of the Livonia Fire Dept., said that a course in building and construction codes helped him know more about his job. "In pre-planning fire protection, I need to know buildings within the area of each fire station, the construction materials used in them and their rate of flame and smoke spread," he said. "I need to know the fireproof of each floor and the amount of water we can pump before each floor will collapse."

Using the courses to prepare for job advancement, Larry Leidel of Livonia said he has learned more about fire prevention and inspection at Madonna.

Leidel has been employed at Livonia's General Motors Chevrolet plant for 10 years. He has worked in plant security and for three years in fire protection.

New Indian aid drive opens up

No sooner had seven truckloads of gifts been sent to Michigan Indians for Christmas than the Western Wayne County Conservation Assn. begins its Easter drive.

Clothing, household goods, some toys and food are being collected for Indian settlements and mission schools by the group's Indian affairs committee.

Especially needed is sewing machine, said committee chairman Hank Chrusciel, 15345 Brentwood, Livonia.

The sewing machine will aid a family with nine children whose father is unable to work because of a brain disease.

Overseas businessmen, civic groups, scout troops, Y and organizations and individuals have contributed to the two-year effort.

Money Mystique Class

His Stock Is The Market

by LORRAINE MCLEISH

If you tell Joseph Naporski you don't own any stocks, he'll probably wonder by asking you: "How come you don't own a share in your country? You're living in the best country in the world and if you don't believe it, do some traveling in Europe for a while and find out."

Naporski is a financial planner at Olds & Company in Southfield. He has used his small investor (and small man) can mean the person who wants to save $25 a month in a trust fund who again is frightened because he has no understanding of the dollar effect on the world market.

His answer to this is summed up in the school brochure: "You have the better decisions you can make."

For starters, his recommended reading for everybody is "The Age of the Bull" by Stewart Holbrook. "I'll give you a good idea of how this country was kept rolling and I will help you understand the ups and downs of the economy so you don't panic when things start to fluctuate."

The course which teaches how to protect your money will cover US Treasury bonds (a good buy) and US Series E bonds (a bad buy); stock market vs. real estate; bank interest vs. corporate funds; life insurance vs. low cost pure protection; cash value savings vs. mutual funds; and the importance of wills, trusts and tax sheltered investments.

The class bonus is learning about investment opportunities that are available currently by a man who holds licenses in the fields of stock, insurance and real estate.

The key to the whole business, Naporski says, is learning what kinds of investments are right for you. "Which is not always easy when so few husbands and wives agree on what they're looking for."

In the search for what's right, considering age, income, amounts and where to put it, Naporski says, "Ev-anything comes out, the fights with the husband and the trouble with the kids."

"Never in history has there been so much money sitting in savings accounts and I can show you companies that can give you, right now, over 10 per cent yield on your money."

"The range is from a few bucks to millions," he said. "There is a place for every investor."
