

Newlyweds live in Marquette

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM PAUL DOUGLASS
(Elaine Lynn Nagy)

Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Douglass, wed recently in a candlelight ceremony in Anglican Lutheran Church in Allen Park. They are living in Marquette and studying at Northern Michigan University.

Mrs. Douglass is the former Elaine Lynn Nagy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Nagy of Allen Park. Mr. and Mrs. L.T. Douglass of Kendallwood Avenue, Farmington Hills, are her husband's parents.

For the wedding, the bride wore a satinee gown with long sleeves, chapel train and venise lace trim. Lace also fashioned her earmuff cap and edged her finger-tip illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of sweetheart roses. Dapper mums and baby's breath.

Laura Manera of Allen Park was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Linda Nagy of Trenton, cousin of the bride, and Jane Blaszkowski of Ramsay, Mich.

All wore royal blue velvet gowns with white lace trim and blue velvet bows in their hair. The honor attendant had yellow roses in her bouquet and the bridesmaids carried baby's breath with white daisy mums. Richard Douglass of Indianapolis was best man for his brother and the guests were seated by Don Stock of Walled Lake and Don Chapman of Farmington Hills. A reception in the Park Colony Club in Allen Park followed the ceremony, and the couple honeymooned in Canada and Upper Michigan before returning to the NMU campus.

Bottles

said Hannon found that the energy cost of returnable bottles is 19,220 per gallon of beverage, compared with 58,100 for throwaway bottles and 51,000 for cans.

"This means," the local environmentalist said, "that while we cut down highway speed to save energy we literally throw away a good percentage of what we save by using throwaway convenience containers for soft drinks and beer."

Magnuson said the Detroit Coalition for the Environment, first in the metropolitan area to operate a recycling center, had decided to close down that operation and instead put its work behind passage of House Bill 495, which it considers the best of several "bottle bills" that have been introduced.

It provides, he said, that all carbonated drinks and beer, ale and other malt liquor be sold only in bottles upon which a deposit of 10 cents is paid, and that dealers be required to charge the deposit and redeem the bottles. There also is a provision for redemption centers to aid dealers with little storage space.

While total "resource recovery" proposals have drawn more attention, and the objections to the bottle bill have been more publicized, Magnuson insisted that "it's important for people to realize how much energy we waste in this way."

"The handwriting is on the wall," he added, "and we cannot go on indefinitely using energy for every whim. We face a choice. We have to decide which of many ways our available energy will be used."

"We're out to promote a healthy, realistic, mature look at the situation."

Magnuson also referred to the Oregon law, which he said had contributed greatly to reducing litter and had been accepted well by consumers and dealers.

"The effects on employment have been far less than predicted," he added.

"We do have to consider the matter of jobs, but industry itself, for a variety of reasons including the energy crisis."

Rochon - Culik vows are spoken

University of Michigan students Mary Ellen Culik and Thomas R. Rochon exchanged marriage vows in a recent evening ceremony in Westminster Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

Dr. George S. Sweet officiated, assisted by Father Bernard Rochon, S.M., uncle of the bridegroom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Culik of Mayfield Avenue, Livonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rochon of Trancrest Avenue, Livonia, are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride wore an ivory gown with a pearl-trimmed bodice and an elbow-length veil. She carried yellow roses and baby's breath.

Her attendants were Jane Crawford of Northville, maid of honor; Diane Culik of Ann Arbor and Lori Rochon of Plymouth, bridesmaids; and Jennifer Tipton, flower girl.

Assisting the bridegroom were Yale Silverman of Livonia, best man, and Hugh Culik of Ann Arbor, Kirk Culik of Livonia and Timothy Rochon of Livonia, ushers.

(Mary Ellen Culik)

After a church parlor reception, the couple traveled to Toronto.

They will live in Ann Arbor, where the new Mrs. Rochon will complete her senior year at U-M and her husband will continue his graduate studies there.

League stages fashion show

A fashion show with clothes by B-Lynn of Farmington will highlight the Feb. 13 meeting of the Redford Suburban League.

The league will meet at noon in Vladimirs, Grand River and Eight Mile, Farmington.

Aletha Triola, program chairman of the month, will be the commentator. Models will be league members Marge Sherman, Nanci Naud, Betty Nevins, Val Speres, Kitty Flynn, Kathy Panek, Carol Phaneuf, Mary Urban, and Ginny Burkhardt.

Center offers next series

Women in business, law and social work is the topic for the "luncheon conversation" sponsored by the Center for Continuing Education of Women, Feb. 12, from noon to 2 p.m. in conference rooms four and five, Michigan League, Ann Arbor.

The informal discussion is planned especially for women who are considering how best to use their interests and skills.

A panel of women students will talk about their experiences in different academic programs, and help to answer questions about the situation for women as students and in the job market.

The center's luncheon conversation series continues March 12, with a discussion about women in biological and physical sciences.

Further information may be obtained from the Center for Continuing Education of Women, 330 Thompson, Ann Arbor.
