Perry stores will make available a home eye test for preschoolers developed by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness free of charge to its customers.

"According to the society, one out of every 20 children has a vision defect. We feel a responsibility to our customers and their youngsters to help find those with defects. If we can help find even one of these youngsters through early detection, treatment can begin, and frankly, the sooner it can be completed, the better for the child." said Robert A.
