Garden guide for April

Michigan State University horticulturists and turfgrass specialists recommend this April guide for homeowners and gardeners:

- Don't start your spring vegetable garden too soon. Let the soil dry out before working it. The soil is ready when a ball of it will crumble in your hand.
- When the soil is ready to be worked, fertilize it with a complete fertilizer.
- Start your tomato plants indoors about six weeks before you plan to transplant them.
- Early in the month, start radishes, leaf and head lettuce, onion sets, peas, greens, broccoli and cabbage.
- Late in the month, plant table beets, carrots, spinach, parsnips, raspberries, strawberries, grapes, rhubarb, asparagus roots and fruit trees.
- Harden your indoor plants before transplanting them outdoors. To do this, withhold water and lower temperatures. Place them outdoors in a protected area during the day and bring them indoors at night.
- Get ready for spring flowering beds. Remove half the winter mulch from your flower beds now and the remaining a week or two later. Clean up clumps of dead iris leaves and rotten rhizomes.
- Fast growing annuals may be started indoors this month. These include: marigolds, calenda, cosmos, scabiosa and gaillardia.
- Fertilize your shade and flowering trees.
- If you are planning to add some trees and shrubs to your landscape, now is the time to do it.
- Leave the foliage on Easter lilies until they turn brown. Then remove the bulb and root mass and plant them outdoors. Lilies will bloom in succeeding years in June or July.
- Control spider mites, spruce gall aphids and scale insects by applying dormant sprays before buds open and shoot growth starts.
- Spray fruit trees as soon as growth starts and continue at 7 to 10 day intervals. Do not spray them when they are in full bloom. An all-purpose fruit spray is the easiest to use.
- Rake out any spots of snowmold as soon as you spot them.
- Reseed any bare spots in your lawn if the soil is no longer muddy.
- If leaf spot is evident on your Kentucky bluegrass, spray with a recommended fungicide such as Dyrene.
- Control any lawn weeds before the temperatures get too high.
- Control crab grass - before you can see it - with siduron or dacthal. Applications should be applied before early May.
- De-thatch your lawn prior to new spring growth.
- Get your soil tested to determine fertilizer needs. You may not need as much as you think.
