East Junior High teacher sets sail

By NANCY STEIN

What a way for a teenager to "turn back the hands of time," may be play at being a pirate.

A week on a ketch (a two masted sailing boat) traveling the upper Great Lakes, learning how to handle a sailing vessel, sleeping for a night on the beach of a deserted island.

Dave Huber, gym and history teacher at East Junior High School in Farmington is going to take up to six young people at a time on just that trip.

"I have two cabins on my boat and also two heads so it will, or can be, a co-ed trip," Huber explained.

Coach of the Southfield Tumbleweeds, a gymnastic team, he's been a teacher for eleven years and a sailor for over 15 years. "I'm licensed by the Coast Guard and of course for trips like this I carry an incredible amount of expensive insurance."

He'll be teaching the kids navigation too. Will his wife go along? "That's not decided yet," said Huber.

The trips will be offered only twice this summer, July 15-20 and July 22-27. It will cost $135 per youngster. Both trips will originate and end in Cheboygan.

As to experience, Huber said, "I've been a charter captain for several years."

Huber calls himself Mackinac Charterers during the summer. For additional information write Mackinac Charter, 21925 Maple Wood, Southfield, 48075.

Farmington High planning fair

"Good Times A'coming" is the theme of a fair May 11, beginning at 11 a.m. at Farmington High.

Sponsored by the Farmington High student council, the fair features games, prizes and happenings.

Over 20 school clubs are participating, and part of the proceeds will be donated to the Nichols School fund to help move and restore the oldest school house in Farmington.

There will also be an old-time Friday afternoon followed by a school dance Friday night. Saturday night, after the fair, the students are putting on an original talent show.

The fair will also host Bob Kowalski, from the Detroit Lions, from 11 a.m. to noon, at the school.

Historical group holds art show

An art show sponsored by the Farmington Historical Society opened Wednesday and continues through Friday at the 12 Mile Farmington Public Library.

Judging for the competition, open to all students in the Farmington Public Schools, will take place May 7. Judges are from the Farmington Artists Club, including Louise Gaddi, Dorothy Clark, Ellen Schenkel, and Carole Garzynski.

Several hundred entries from the elementary junior high and senior high schools are entered, according to Ely Bird, chairman of the show.

The society sponsors the art competition as part of the sesquicentennial activities.

"The purchased art work will become a part of the permanent collection of artifacts and memorabilia of Farmington," Bird said.

The competition was prepared with the cooperation of the Artists club.

2 earn law honors

Terrance Bacon, 22918 Maple, and Steven Silverman, 32296 Taneyton, both of Farmington, received awards at the University of Michigan Law School annual Honors Convocation.

Bacon was admitted to the Society of the Coif, a national law school honor society whose members are selected from the top 10 per cent of the third year class.

Silverman received the Howard B. Coblenz Prize, to the student member of the "Michigan Law Review" editorial staff whose work on the staff has been the most satisfactory during the year.
