

Going through the paces . . .

Elementary school children in Farmington were introduced to the Trailblazers when the 50-member 4-H Club set out with horses and dogs on a week-long schedule to show the youngsters what 4-H is all about.

Barbara Dingee, general leader of the Trailblazers, and her co-leader Janice Ferguson, took animals and different members of the club each day on a tour of 20 public and parochial schools for demonstrations of dog care and training, and horsemanship.

The children at William Grace, pictured here, gathered on the school grounds to see demonstrations by Dale Allmayer, putting his Basenji through his paces; Debbie Rasmussen, demonstrating the proper way to saddle; and Diane Dingee, showing good grooming techniques for horses.

Denise Dingman was master of ceremonies.

Therese Lewis and Debbie Rasmussen look over "Sugarfoot."

Dale Allmayer puts his dog through paces.

Little League

The South Farmington Little League kicked off the season with the traditional parade to the Farmington City Park. Mayors Robert McConnell and Ralph Yoder split the honors by tossing the first ball back and forth. Guest Denny McClain (above) gave the opening address for one of the area's most popular summertime activities. (photos by Ralph Evert)