SCHOLARS

Susan F. Yager, Bloomfield Hills, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

A graduate in her junior year from Marian High School, she was chosen on the basis of recommendation by counselors, high class ranking, and excellence in achievement on college entrance examination board scores.

Karen A. Mills, Troy, has been awarded a scholarship by the Lawrence Institute of Technology of the 1974-75 year. Mills is a recent graduate of Bishop Foley High School and plans to study mechanical engineering.

Susan Tyler, 6223 Eastmoor Road was granted an Abbott Foundation scholarship. She will be attending Michigan State University in the fall.

Not much in Oakland County life is free—except such services as complete immunization for every youngster, a detailed map to even the most remote lakes or the gardening green-thumb advice of professionals.

Every child in Oakland County, regardless of family income, is eligible for complete immunization from the age of two months on, according to Patricia Seibert, director of clinics.

During the next two weeks, while lines are not a problem, parents may bring their youngsters to either the Health Department office at 2725 Greenfield Road, Southfield, or the County Service Center, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

In regular intervals between the age of two months and five years (right before the start of school) the child will receive free all the shots and oral vaccines necessary to protect him through adulthood, Ms. Seibert said.

TETANUS, WHOOPING cough, diphtheria, tuberculosis (TB), measles and polio protection are included in the treatments just as they would be in services offered by a private pediatrician, Ms. Seibert said.

Adults including students, missionaries, families of service men, senior citizens can also avail themselves of free vaccinations offered, including flu shots when recommended.

As school nears in the fall, often lines are long and discouraging. That time of the year teachers, required to have annual TB tests, also flood the two county health offices, Ms. Seibert said.

The services to the educators are also free, the health department official said.

NEXT TIME you're near the Oakland County Road Commission offices, 3420 Pontiac Lake Road, Pontiac, pick up a county road map—free.

(The second copy will cost a quarter which is still 15 cents below cost.)

Up-to-date and complete, the road map may be the key to finding out-of-the-way summer recreation spots.

Oakland County's horticultural agent, employed by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension office, a branch of Michigan State University (MSU), is a free garden doctor only a phone call away.

If the horticulturist can't answer your lawn or shrub questions over the phone (558-0800), he may ask that a sample be brought into the office at 1025 N. Telegraph, Pontiac. Then if the greenery problem cannot be solved, your query will be forwarded to the East Lansing MSU campus specialists free.

Home economics agents of the Cooperative Extension office offer free lessons to home economics clubs.

And food stamp recipients may call on the expert services of the department's expanded nutritionists who offer free dietary and preparation advice. For information or referrals call 558-0800.

Bar sues 'attorney'

By JACKIE KLEIN

OAKLAND COUNTY—Southfield "attorney" Jack Rose will appear in circuit court Wednesday on charges of engaging in the unauthorized practice of law in Michigan.

The lawsuit, filed by the State Bar of Michigan, seeks to enjoin Rose from practicing and "identifying himself as an attorney." The case has been assigned to Oakland County Circuit Judge Farrell E. Roberts.

The complaint maintains Rose isn't licensed to practice law in the state, has not been examined or certified by the state board of law examiners and is not bound by the standards of the Supreme Court of Michigan.

ROSE, WHO was ousted from Wayne State University for representing himself as a law student when he lacked proper credits, maintains an office at 24901 W. Walden, Southfield, under the title Jack Rose, Attorney-at-Law.

The lawsuit states Rose attempted to defend individuals in Oakland County, Lapeer and Wayne County circuit courts, representing himself as an attorney and charging fees for his services.

"When the defendant was unable to obtain an identification number as required of all attorneys, he arbitrarily gave himself a number," according to the complaint.

"The rights of individuals seeking legal services and relying on the defendant's representation are jeopardized. The defendant lacks expertise and his acts cause procedural irregularities and lack of protection of attorney-client privilege."

The lawsuit seeks an order to show cause why Rose should not be "punished for his contemptuous conduct in practicing law illegally."

Newton wins scholarship

WEST BLOOMFIELD—Richard A. Newton, 17, a June 6 West Bloomfield High School graduate, will receive one of 1,000 college-sponsored National Merit Scholarships.

Newton, one of the high school's five valedictorians, will use his scholarship to attend Carleton College, Northfield, Minn.

A straight "A" student, he plans to take as broad a range of undergraduate courses as possible with an eye toward law school.

Newton lives at 5788 Alderley Way, West Bloomfield.
