

CROWLEY'S

Our checkerboard Kimberly is game for an elegant autumn

Softly styled in every way, this two-part knit simply flows with fashion. A long scarf is looped around the neckline of the chain-belted top. The skirt is a swirling study in motion. In two rich tones of copper, it's of virgin wool/polyester knit, 8 to 16, $95. Better Dresses (#52) at our Livonia, Bingham and Farmington stores.

Luxury in sweaters

In the year of sweater coats and sweater dressing, Calvin Klein tosses a bit of hidden luxury into wearing woven yarns. Klein's fall collection, shown at Saks Fifth Avenue last week, included a fur-lined sweater jacket.

The luxuriously warm topper was teamed with straight-legged, uncuffed pants, soft blouse and pull-over sweater.

The layered mood of soft blouses and sweaters was repeated in the collection of knee-covering skirts.

Blouses styled with neckline scarves softened the sportswear mood and added a touch of femininity to the casual look. The scarves folded into open sweater necklines and spilled over turtleneck vests.

Klein's turtleneck interpretation is expansive and rings the neckline in an oversize band of sweatering.

The designer shows additional neckline treatment with the adoption of long cashmere scarves on cashmere pant ensembles and more informal knit wraparounds on sweatered or caped shoulders.
