Plymouth Salem slips by Andover,21.20

By FRED DeLANO
Despite a 14-point halftime lead, it took a blocked conversion attempt in the final period to give Plymouth Salem a 21-20 football victory over Bloomfield Hills Andover in Friday's season opener.

It was the fourth year in a row that Plymouth had topped Andover, but the Barons came back from a slugg-ish first half to knot things at 14-all in the third quarter. They had a chance to tie it up again after seeing the Rocks move out in front 21-14. Quarterback Jim Breaugh's third touchdown pass of the night, a seven-yarder to Jerry Meter brought the vis-iting Barons to 21-20 at 7:37 of the final period. That's when Plymouth's ornushing line proved the diference: Terri Henderson's try for the extra point was batted down. He had suc-cessfully kicked two others.

Not only was sustained game ball control the key factor in all three Plymouth touchdowns, it again proved the ace in the hole for the Rocks as they kept possession from then on and were at Andover's eight yard line at the final gun.

As dominant as the Rocks were on the ground—with fullback Scott dare covered 64 yards. Dillon started Agnew getting all three touchdowns in that covered 64 yards. Lahser thrives on Western fumbles Mistakes made the difference in Bloomfield Hills Lahsen's opening foot-ball game against Walled Lake West-ern Friday night.

And the Knights made fewer mistak-

Lahser capitalized on two Western fumbles in the first half to get their gridiron season off to a fast start 14-0. In all, Walled Lake booted the ball away five times during the night while Lahser turned it over twice.

Three of the Warriors' fumbles came as a direct result of the hard hitting Lahser defense.

"Our defense was really hitting out there tonight," said Lahser coach Ted Guthard, "Most of those fumbles didn't just happen, they were caused by the defense."

The first fumble came on the game's second play from scrimmage as Lahser's Ted Cromie jumped on a loose ball following a viscious tackle to give the Knights the ball on Walled Lake's 37 yard line.

need as it took a 7-0 lead.

Late in the first quarter. Western made one of its few drives against a tough Knight defense, going from the Walled Lake 20 to within the Lahser 40 yard line before the drive fizzled.

Following the Western punt. Lahser rotowing the Western punt. Lahser put on a drive of its own, going from its 12 yard line to the Western 14. But three short runs compounded by a long clipping penalty and a shorter one for delay of game forced the Knights to punt from the Warriors' 48 yard line.

On the next play from scrimmage. Western's quarterback Kevin Nisem and halfback Mark Shurrun combined to muff a handoff and Lahser's defensive lineman Pat Mulligan pounced on the bouncing ball to give the Knights excellent field position again on Western's 18 yard line.

The second half was also marked by a Lahser defense that wouldn't quit. The Knights held Walled Lake without a first down for the final 30 minutes and gave up only seven in the game.

Walled Lake's best scoring opportunity came with nine minutes remaining in the game when an errant pass from center flew over Knight punter Herbst's head and the Warriors took over on Lahser's 22 yard line. Typically, however, Walled Lake fumbled on the next play and Lahser took control service.
