Desserts Cool And Colorful

Who wants to stay in a warm kitchen preparing dessert for family or guests when she can be outside in the fresh air and July sun?

Here are a few molded and frozen desserts that will top off a charcoal broiled steak or make a hotdog picnic dinner a real treat.

DON'T BE PUZZLED about the size of a fancy mold. You can figure it out by filling the mold right to the brim with measured amounts of water. The total gives you the cup size of mold.

When ready to unmold the dessert the trick here is to break the vacuum at the bottom of mold so that the dessert will slip out easily.

First run a small tip knife around top edge of mold from side to side, shaking gently, until gelatin pulls away completely.

Cover mold with serving plate; grasp both firmly; turn upside down; lift off mold.

An alternate method is to loosen with knife as above, dip mold quickly in and out of hot water, and invert onto plate. You must be careful so hot water does not melt the gelatin or your design may not hold its shape.

Here are some quick, cool and colorful desserts to try.

FUDGE SUNDAE PIE

1 c. evaporated milk
1 6-oz. pkg. semisweet chocolate morsels
1 c. miniature marshallows
1/4 t. salt
Vanilla wafers
1/2 qt. vanilla ice cream
Pecans

Stir first four ingredients over low heat until thick; cool. Line bottom of pie pan with vanilla wafers; cover with ice cream. Cover ice cream with one-half of chocolate mixture; repeat. Cover top with pecans and freeze. Yield: 6 servings.

TWO SHERBET PARFAIT

Put a layer of orange sherbet, a layer of lime sherbet and a little green creme de menthe into parfait glasses. Fill with lime sherbet and store in freezer until serving time. Decorate each with a thin spiral of peel cut from an orange. Top with mint, if desired. Freeze until serving time.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM MOUNTAIN

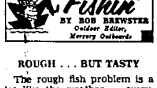
1/2 c. soft butter
1/4 c. sugar
1 1/2 c. fine graham cracker crumbs
3 pints strawberry ice cream
whipped cream
whole strawberries

Cream butter and sugar. Add crumbs. Line a 5 cup mixing bowl with crumbs. Soften ice cream. Press into crumb lining. Freeze about 6 hours. To unmold run a thin spatula around sides and invert on plate. Garnish with strawberries.

FROZEN RAINBOW DESSERT

1 doz. coconut macaroons
2 c. whipping cream
1 pt. each lime, rasberry and lemon sherbet

Toast macaroons in 300-degree oven for 10 minutes; crush into medium fine crumbs. Whip cream just until it mounds slightly, not stiff; fold in crumbs. Spread about a third of the whipped cream mixture over bottom of 9 1/2 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Using half of each, quickly spoon sherbets in layers on top. Cover with another third of the cream mixture. Repeat layers ending with cream on top. Freeze until firm. To serve, turn out and slice. Yield: 12 servings.



ROUGH . . . BUT TASTY

The rough fish problem is a lot like the weather — everyone talks about it, but no action.

Unlike the weather, though, this is one problem that can be solved by eating it up if enough fishermen would let out their belts and overcome their repugnance towards the rough species.

The table qualities of many rough fish surprise even the most finicky eater, observe the experts at Mercury outboards. When properly prepared they become a gourment's delight, as is the case with most anything that swims, flies or runs.

The list of common "trash" fish is long. It includes such species as suckers, carp, drum, chubs, mooneyes, redhorse and buffalo.

Many of these are caught commercially, but find their way into the fish markets under assumed (and more palatable) names.

The "white perch" you buy may be drum; "boneless cat" is often the odd-looking paddlefish or spoonbill. Non-sport fish in saltwater receive an even more impressive array of monikers.
