FARMINGTON ENTERPRISE

C. D. Potter, Publisher.
Pontiac Farmer Stirred Up
Bertrand Falkner, a farmer from near Pontiac, rushed into central station at Detroit Sunday night and told a wild and woolly yarn of how he had been held up and robbed of $15.85 in money and a $15 watch by two highwaymen near the ferry dock at the foot of Woodward avenue. He claimed that two men with a gun relieved him of his cash. Detectives Downey and Fox were unable to verify his yarn and are somewhat doubtful about it.

Alimony.

The Chicago judge who held the other day that a woman who has obtained a decree of divorce and has not remarried is entitled to alimony whenever her former husband becomes capable of paying it, delay in making the claim being no bar, may start other proceedings of the same sort, for lawyers generally approve of the decision as good law.

Of course, where a woman has accepted a stipulated alimony at the time of the divorce, she is bound by the stipulation. But the man whose wife was glad enough to get rid of him without asking for alimony and who has since acquired wealth, even if he has married again and raised a second family, will now be worried by the bugbear that "heavy, heavy hangs over his head." Perhaps the situation may incite good conduct which in some cases will avoid provocation for divorce.

Good Crop.

Millet is considered a valuable crop by many farmers familiar with its growth for the following reasons. First, it may be grown as a catch crop where some other crop has failed or on land that has been too wet for early sowing. Second, it may be grown as a crop for smothering weeds, where those perennial in character, as quack grass, infest the land. For this purpose it is very effective when the land has been properly managed prior to the sowing of the millet. Third, it may be made to provide hay in emergency when hay may be short from other sources. Fourth it may be made to furnish grain that proves a good substitute for corn where corn may not be a sure crop. Fifth, it is a sure crop when properly managed, as it can mature for seed in less than 90 days from sowing; for hay in less than 30 days.

DECALOGUE FOR FIRST VOTER

Drawn up by Boston Clergyman with the Object of Encouraging Civic Virtue.

A meeting was held at Faneuil hall, Boston, recently for the purpose of encouraging immigrants in taking a practical interest in the civil affairs of the country and of the cities in which they live. Among the members of the Boston Equal Suffrage association, under whose auspices the meeting was held, was Rev. Mr. Elieher, who presented for adoption this document, which he called "a first voter's decalogue."

1. Thou shalt not worship any political idols, nor bow down to them, nor serve them; for their altars will be visited on thee and thy children until the third and fourth generation.
2. Thou shalt not take the name of patriotism in vain, nor use it to hide thy selfish motives.
3. Remember the day of election to keep it holy.
4. Honour the sanctity of the ballot that the days of the republic may be prolonged.
5. Thou shalt not kill the spirit of freedom by neglecting to exercise thy right of suffrage as a freeman.
6. Thou shalt not adulterate the purity of civic life by entering politics for gain.
7. Thou shalt not encourage public servants to be bribed by thy indifference.
8. Thou shalt not let greed for political reward bear false witness against the spirit of patriotism.
9. Thou shalt not covet a public office which thou art not fit to fill.

ART AS VIEWED IN ENGLAND

Swinsburne's Social Connections Rather Than His Exquisite Taste Gave Him Consideration.

Booth Tarkenton, in his brilliant fashion, was talking about the poet Swinsburne.

"They buried Tennyson in the abbey," he said. "They buried Swinsburne in the gutter. They buried Swinsburne in the gutter." Swinsburne was so famous as a diamond in the public eye. Actors like Irving crop up every year or two, but there was never a singer like Swinsburne. Neither Coleridge nor Shelley nor Shakespeare could match that music.

"The English didn't appreciate him. Only in France is art appreciated. The English idea of art is well portrayed in a story Mrs. Henniker Heaton sometimes tells."

"Mrs. Henniker Heaton, a connection of the poet's, was showing to some ladies miniature reproductions of Swinsburne's little relatives."

"One of these ladies, as she studied a miniature of Lord Ashburton, turned to her daughter and said:

"My dear, I had no idea Swinsburne was so good connected. I wonder, the next time we are at Audley's to buy his work."

Not Perfect, But Try to Be.

It may be safely said that no men are more painfully and constantly conscious of the imperfections and shortcomings of our newspapers than those who are engaged every day in the task of their fabrication, and yet it must be said to their credit that none are more conscious of their responsibility to the public and none more constantly on the alert to verify every detail of the news they set before the public or more conscientious in their purpose to interpret accurately and fairly the events that demand critical attention. Newspapers are imperfect, and doubtless the Mardian press could teach the best of American newspapers very much that would be well worth the knowing, but the Times does not believe that over in the history of civilization was the great body of the press actuated by higher purpose than now or inspired by a more general determination to tell the truth and to interpret accurately to its best intelligence the significance of passing events—Brooklyn Times.

Oh, Yes, We're Superstitious.

A man stood on a lower Broadway corner with a box of good luck rings. They were horseshoe nails made into rings. It was amazing the number of people who went up and bought these rings of the man, sitting them carefully on their fingers, paying for them, walking off with them, turning them this way and that to admire them, though their price was only a nickel.

"Do you make your living selling these?" asked a woman who bought a very fetching one for her third finger.

"Yes, madam," said he.

"There must be a lot of superstitious people in New York," said she, "if a man can make his living by selling horseshoe nail rings at a nickel apiece."

"There are, madam," said he.—New York Press.

Reason Enough.
Teacher—Tommy, you should comb your hair before you come to school.
Tommy—Ain't got no comb.
Teacher—Then borrow your father's.
Tommy—Father ain't got no comb neither.
Teacher—Absurd! Doesn't he comb his hair?
Tommy—He ain't got no hair!—Lippincott's Magazine.

Bear cubs are popular pets in London just now. A prominent dealer says that the taste inclines now to the main variety, while a short time ago the Malayan bear was all the fashion.
