

Behind the store fronts

Haberdsasher Robert W. Pike is now the owner of a first edition copy of "Moby Dick," that he finally located in England. Rare and old books have long fascinated Pike who operates C.F. Hana men's wear at 75 W. Long Lake Rd., Bloomfield-Hills.

Pike's present collection of antique books includes all of Nathaniel Hawthorne's works and all of Ole Rolvaag, an early American citizen who wrote in Norwegian but had much of his work translated into English.

Other volumes in Pike's collection include books by Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Thoreau and Edgar Allen Poe.

He invites communication from people who have a kindred interest in his hobby.

PROBABLY MOST HEADS of successful businesses cherish the hope that their sons will someday carry on the family name in commerce, and this appears to be the case with Ed

Chudik's Fine Furs & Apparel, 294 Brown St., Birmingham.

The Chudik's son, Chris, 24, as manager of the Nieman Marcus Houston, Texas, store, is that firm's youngest store manager. He was formerly manager of the chain's fur boutique in Dallas.

Younger son, Steve, 23, is also intensely interested in all facets of the fur business and is learning the business at Chudik's. Ed and Steve took a flight Monday to Frankfurt, Germany, for a week at the International Fur Show. The world's largest fur show (the U.S. is represented), the Chudik's received special invitations from the governments represented. Because of the Chudik's own design workshops they will be particularly interested in the machinery exhibited, Ed said.

Chudik's also recently added a complete line of casual sports clothes in the store's old beauty salon area
