

Stick to it!

A tense ballgame, when your brother Dan is the pitcher, calls for fancy bubblegum artistry. The bubble gum hit home leaving Marcie Perry surprised...and a little sticky. (Photo by Craig Newman))30

Summer enters scene

Summer announced its entry on the scene with hot samples of what's in store. The streets were quiet. The sound of the air conditioner was heard in the land and the place to be was in the pool—if you were lucky enough to have access to one.

Woodbrooke Hills Swimming Club was one of several areas ones ready for eager swimmers who pronounced both weather and water just fine. Some finished yard work before they could enjoy a taste of early summer leisure. A few high schoolers gathered at the park picnic tables to talk over the events of those last grueling days before classes ended and two or three of the more energetic played catch.

Business was going great at the ice cream and refreshment stands. The only problem was to get the connections down before the sun and heat turned them into sticky puddles.

After the traditional conversation opener: "Hot enough for you?" friends agreed it had to have been the shortest spring on record and the longest rainy season. Complaints about rain are not "in" this year. The vegetable gardeners are elated those who forgot to plant a backyard crop aren't bragging about it.

It's the beginning of those lazy, hot days everyone longed for as they plowed through the snow drifts last March.

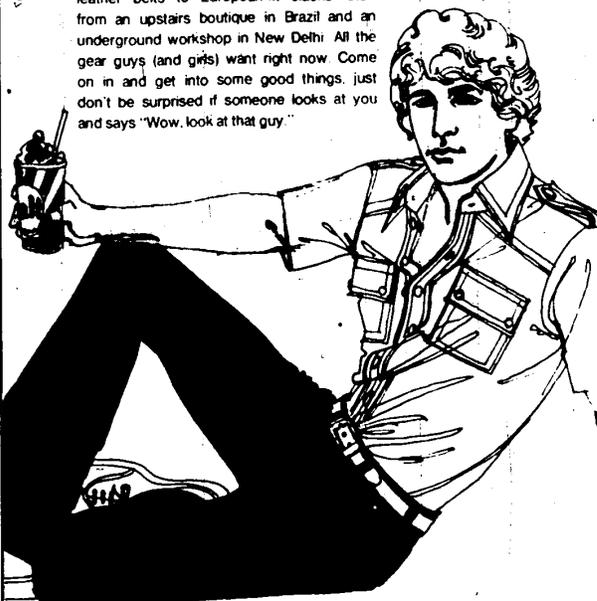

Mark Chekat and Pam Gaffney both of at the Woodbrooke Hills Swimming Club Farmington Hills enjoy a snatch of the good life (Staff photo by Harry Mauthe)

Cyndi Haight, 17. Woodbrooke Hills Swimming Club life guard takes her job seriously.

That Guy is a neat, new shop at Hudson's

Sure, we could just say That Guy is a great new shop. Or we could say this: You are walking down the street and you spot a guy who's look is really dynamite. It could be pre-washed jeans or country-comfortable overalls. Maybe a western style gauze shirt. He is That Guy. You will even hear people say "Wow, look at that guy". And we want you to be him. That's what Hudson's new shop is really all about. With everything from tooled leather belts to European-fit slacks—stuff from an upstairs boutique in Brazil and an underground workshop in New Delhi. All the gear guys (and girls) want right now. Come on in and get into some good things. just don't be surprised if someone looks at you and says "Wow, look at that guy."

that guy-hudson's