

MOLLY FENAKEL

Sisterhood fetes cantor's wife

The Sisterhood of Adat Shalom gathered this week for a tribute to Molly Fenakel, who will be leaving the congregation after 27 years.

She is the wife of the Farmington synagogue's Cantor Nicholas Fenakel and came from England as a young bride to join the congregation.

Mrs. George Liss, who chaired the afternoon tribute, told guests, "This is not a formal affair. It is an extemporaneous... from-the-heart luncheon of love."

Mrs. Fenakel was best known in the congregation for her work with children. She served on the Youth Commission, worked with the United Synagogue Youth, planned teen dinners and volunteered herself as chaperone at various youth affairs.

Her artistic and creative ability will also be remembered.

Sisterhood President, Charlotte Nussbaum said, "when we have needed an extra special gracious touch, we have turned to Molly."

The congregation had come to expect that she would decorate the Sukkot every fall and plan the Purim carnivals every spring.

With her husband and the couple's daughter, Judy, the family will retire, Mrs. Fenakel said, to West Palm Beach, Fla.

WILLIAM CORRELL

Lecture set at Groves

Finding answers to personal and world problems through "The Spiritual Viewpoint" will be discussed by William Milford Correll, a member of the world-wide Christian Science lecture board. Lecture time is 3 p.m. Saturday at Groves High School auditorium.

This will be the first summer lecture to be presented locally in several years. It is jointly sponsored by the Christian Science churches of Birmingham and Royal Oak.

A life-long Christian Scientist, Correll entered the healing ministry of his church in 1946 after a business career in his native Cleveland. From 1965 to 1974, he served as associate editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals.

Care for young children will be provided during the free one-hour talk.
