Registration open for 'Liberty' talks

Our Lady of Sorrows in Farmington will begin registration for the Catholic Bicentennial program, "Liberty and Justice for All" on Sunday Oct. 5 and 12. The program is open to all interested persons.

The program will consist of a series of eight discussions, with meetings being conducted from Oct. 16 through Nov. 13. Each program will run approximately two hours, beginning at 8 p.m. at parish hall.

While the format for each program will vary, each meeting will consist of a guest speaker or guest panel presenting an overview of the subject.

The meeting then will be subdivided into smaller discussion groups in which participants will have an opportunity to speak up sharing their viewpoints and making recommendations for corrective action.

The meeting will conclude with the selection by the entire group of the best recommendations for corrective action. These recommendations will be presented to the U.S. bishop to help shape the five year national program for "Liberty and Justice for All."

- Oct. 16: "The Church"
- Oct. 21: "Personhood"
- Oct. 23: "The Family"
- Oct. 28: "Work"
- Nov. 4: "Neighborhood"
- Nov. 6: "Ethnicity and Race"
- Nov. 11: "Humankind"
- Nov. 13: "Nationhood"

Choral workshop is sponsored

The Farmington Arts Council is sponsoring a choral workshop for all interested students in grades nine through 12 at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 3 in the Harrison High School auditorium.

The workshop will feature the Madrigal Club of Detroit which will do professional sight reading and a lecture-choral demonstration with audience participation for the students.

Theodore Stil, a teacher at North Farmington High School and director of the Madrigal Club, will be coordinating the workshop.
