INADEQUATE CLOSURE

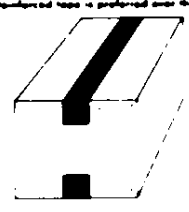

KRAFT PAPER TAPE

This is a one thickness tape available in many widths and strengths. It must be correctly applied both in its positioning and adhesion, and must be graded in use according to the shape and weight of the package. It is not adequate for heavy packages. Of particular importance is the absolute necessity for fully taping down the ends of the package flaps.

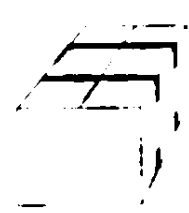

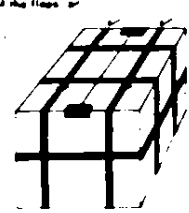

REINFORCED KRAFT PAPER TAPE

This tape is about 3 inches wide and is composed of several laminated layers with a strength increasing both lengthwise and across. It is extremely break resistant and has excellent adhesion qualities. Reinforced tape is preferred over the plain kraft tape.

PRESSURE SENSITIVE FILAMENT TAPE

This tape is composed of filaments imbedded in pressure sensitive adhesive. It is extremely strong and only short strips are needed to accomplish effective closure. It is important to tape down the ends of the flaps.

Note: Burning of corners, especially taped joints, may be a problem for containers under heavy impact.

Proper taping is important
