Bentley nips Falcons in overtime thriller

By RON GARBINSKI

In a thrilling overtime period which saw the lead change back and forth bentiely fligh school's Tim Weiss sank his second fere throw attempt with one second left of the control of the second for the second left of the control of the second leading by as much as 10 points in the second quarter, saw its lead slip in the third as the Falcons started the second quarter, saw its lead slip in the third as the Falcons started the second law with a new defence mituan as hig man in the middle Brain Steusloff, Farmington's center, said Errain strategy changed.

"We had to get out of our note defense when we lost our center," said Farmington coach Bruce Brown. Bentley was a big, strone term, and when we lost our man in the middle we had to switch to mand-ornan and start running with the baskethall When you start fast breaking all the time, that tends to cause turnovers and mistakes." And turnovers and mistakes are what really hurt both teams. "We had a good first half, but we made a lot only eight as the Buildogs took a 37.29 halltime advantage wong," Bentley's coach Larry Jacks son said after his team's narrow victory. sprained his ankle in the early minutes of play and from there on the Falcon's strategy changed.

"We had to get out of our zone defense when we look our center," said farmington coach Bruce Brown.

a good first half, but we made a lot of mistakes. When a team makes 50 turn vers in one game, then something is wrong." Bentley's coach Larry Jackson said after his team's narrow victory.

"THERE WERE a lot of costly mis-takes that almost lost the game for us, especially when a technical foul was called on me with less than a min-ute left to play with the game tied at 69-all. But things worked out to our

BENTLEY'S BIG men under the backboards maintained the rebound-ing advantage, but it was not good erough to hold back the Farmington atlack. Time and time again the Fal-cons made the quick baskets and kept the game close in the final minutes of play

With $2 seconds left on the clock and the score tied at $0. Farmingson went into a stall, hoping to win the game on a last-second shot, But Randy Meler's jump shot was blocked and Rick Milhizer's attempted erbound was knocked out of bounds. With three seconds left in the game. Farmington tailed to get away another shot and the game wers into overtime.

Farmington failed to get away another shot and the game wert into over time.

Both teams slowed the game down considerably as fouls and turnovers cost the game for Farmington to the game with 1 seconds realing, but Meler's free throw attempt missed and Benkley goulder rebound, calling time out. Bringing the ball down from miscourt, Weiss was fousied attempting a lay-up. He missed his first shot but sank the next one to put the game away for Bentley.
