

How This Works...

We've created this memory aid to help you keep track of all the books you read (or listen to) and programs you attend. To log your activities, go online to www.farmlib.org/teen-scene and click on the A Universe of Stories logo! Make sure you log everything by 5 p.m. on Sunday, July 28 to be fully entered for the grand prize drawings – and the finale party! We will also have weekly prize drawings based on every 5 hours logged, and we have an out-of-this-world prize for those who log at least 15 hours.

Read and/or participate at least 30 hours this summer to be eligible for the Teen Finale Party on Friday, August 2!

TEEN SUMMER READING CHALLENGES

Use hashtag #FCLSummerChallenges to share pictures or videos from these challenges! You can also DM or PM us @fclteenscene, and we'll share them on our accounts (with your permission). Just want to show them to Shira and Jennie? Message @fclteenscene, and let us know it's for our eyes only!

- 1 Build a Solar System Achievement
If you could build your own world, what would it be like? Create your own imaginary solar system, galaxy, or planet and tell us all about it. Loving your new solar system? Get inspired to create fiction or art to combine this achievement with the Constellation Fanfiction Achievement.
- 2 Constellation Fanfiction Achievement
Did you know that most constellations were named for ancient mythological figures? Research a constellation, then use that to create fanfiction or fanart. Share a sample piece from the fic or a photo of the art with us!
- 3 Expand Your Universe Achievement
Read a book about someone from a different background (culture, gender, sexuality, religion, etc.). Tell us the title and author.
- 4 Good Neighbor Achievement
Volunteer to help someone you know (neighbor, family, friend, etc.). Share a picture!
- 5 Have Fun at the Library Achievement
This one's easy, right? Visit the library and attend one of the teen programs! Oh yeah - and have fun! Tell us which program you attended.
- 6 How it Originated Achievement
Many cultures have origin myths to explain how the earth was created, why the sun sets at night, why wolves howl, etc. Think about something in the world that you'd like to explain, and create your own origin myth - the more creative the better! Share your myth with us, either by writing it down or recording yourself telling the story.
- 7 Intergalactic Genre Explorer Achievement
Read books from three different genres. Tell us the titles and authors, and which genre you liked best.
- 8 Keep in Touch Achievement
Like or follow the Library's Teen Scene - @FCLTeenScene - on social media (Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram) to get announcements of upcoming programs, new books hitting the shelves, and a whole lot more! PM us for the secret code to unlock this achievement. You can also DM or PM us your results from these challenges, and we'll share them on our accounts (with your permission).
- 9 Look Up From the Screen Achievement
Try not to use smart devices (phone, tablet, computer) for a full day.
- 10 Pass it On Achievement
Share your knowledge! Volunteer to tutor someone: a younger sibling, a friend - even an older person who needs help with their technology!
- 11 Stargazer's Achievement
Grab a blanket, head to a grassy patch, curl up, and gaze at the night sky. The farther you are from downtown areas, the more stars you'll be able to see. Want to learn more about them? Head to call number 523.8 in our Nonfiction section to find constellation guides, and tell us which constellations you saw!
- 12 Young Hero Achievement
Find out about a young person who did something that improved the world.
