

Bloomfield Hills Lahser tops Oak Park

Oak Park kept battling back throughout the game before Bloomfield Hills Lahser took control in the fourth period and came away with a 89-46 win on Tuesday.

The first period was a "feeling out period," said Lahser Coach Nick Conti. "So the starters went back in and we did what we had to do to win."

Win they did as the Knights outscored the Redkins 9-0 in the final period.

Mark Principe once again led Lahser's scoring attack with 22 points to win the game high honors. Teemuaine Dave Bennett and Mark Chelchick added 14 and 10 points respectively.

Oak Park got balanced scoring with Carlos Adkins leading the way with 12 points and Larry Galloway chipping in with 11.

"We started pressing early," Conti said, "and they got a lot of easy baskets against our press. In the second quarter we took the press off and faced them at half court. They began having difficulty because they had to play five guys on defense instead of playing for the easy basket."

"On offense we simply took those things which were given us," he continued "Against the zone, if you're patient enough, there are certain things you can take advantage of."

The Knights are now 11-1, 6-1 in the Metro Suburban Association. Lahser will play league's 50th Anniversary game Friday, the only team to which the Knights have lost. The game will probably be one of the year's best with Lahser seeking revenge and perhaps a share of the MSA title if they can defeat the unbeatens Chargers.

W. Bloomfield falls again

Putting together an all-around team of four that featured balanced scoring and a tenacious defense, Livonia Stevenson routed West Bloomfield Tuesday evening in a basketball encounter 74-45.

"I am exceptionally pleased," stated an elated Stevenson coach George Van Wagner after the contest. "They looked up last season. However, our kids did a super job and it was nice revenge."

The Spartans' strategy was to use a tight 2-2 zone defense in an effort to close down the middle early in the game and force the much taller Lakers to score on long outside shots.

That battle plan worked moderately well during the opening quarter, as Stevenson jumped out to a 20-14 advantage. The strategy looked even better at the half-time intermission, since West Bloomfield could come up with only six points during the second period to lag hopelessly behind after 18 minutes of action 42-20.

Both squads played on even terms in the third quarter, with the Lakers outscoring their host 18-18, but the final period was a repeat of the nightmare experienced by the West Bloomfield capers during the second quarter.

Again, during the final eight minutes, the Lakers could find the range for only 16 points. Dave Haberman, 14, and Rob Rose, 12, Brian Clifford, with 19 points, was the only Lahser in double figures.

"Everyone played and it was a total team effort," Van Wagner summarized. "Dave Gilland played a whale of a ball game before he got hurt and everyone up front did an exceptionally fine job."

Gilland was injured on a lay-up attempt when he was crashed to the court. He left the contest and received a few stitches to close a cut.

The victory upped the Spartans' season mark to 8-5, while West Bloomfield, which leads the Greater Oakland Activities League, fell to 9-3 overall.
