

Getting Around

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Yesterday, a nostalgic entertainment room, has been drawing big crowds at the new Sheraton-Southfield Hotel, formerly the Shawsaws.

The room features intimate conversational groupings on three levels, authentic old stained glass including a spectacular inset from Belgium above the bar, brass railings and sheet music of the past for your listening pleasure.

Waitresses wear draped gowns reminiscent of the early 1900s. Top nightplaces designer Louis Aiello of Denver set the room's mood.

Not a loud rock scene—you can actually talk in Yesterday—the music is listening and dancing, by the versatile vocal and instrumental group, Mel Ball and Co.

Part of the attraction is the modest drink prices and bargain hours (diners you can enjoy before 4 p.m. until 2 a.m. Monday through Friday, from 6:30 p.m. till 2 a.m. on Saturday, Mel Ball and Co. serving until 1 a.m. Saturday and Monday) is disco night.

Sheraton-Southfield General Manager Dan Murphy said the room was extended onto the original hotel in space once set aside for small shops.

THE OCEANIA INN tried to bring entertainment to the Oriental restaurant at Meadow Brook Mall recently but had to close its doors because customers just didn't turn out.

We took an informal survey: restaurateur Lou Loung said, "everybody told us they just didn't want to come out of their houses in this cold weather."

Come spring, he'll try again.

If you've never tried pressed duck, the inn's executive chef, John DeMeyer, says you may be in for a treat. Loung said, "This one's a goodly buffer of breakfast dishes, luncheon choices and Italian specialties. Brunch is from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m."

THE PARADISO CAFE in Woodward near Six Mile in Detroit has added a Sunday brunch not long ago. This one's a goodly buffer of breakfast dishes, luncheon choices and Italian specialties. Brunch is from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.
