Stop and study at Orchard Ridge

Area students who commute to other campuses are invited to do their studying at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College.

Don Nichols, dean of students explains, "The campus has become a popular location for students from various universities and colleges in the metropolitan area. These students who commute many miles from their homes have found that they can save time, money and gasoline by utilizing the study carrels at Orchard Ridge when they do not have classes scheduled at their own college."

Dr. Nichols emphasized that this also was being done as a community service to those who support the college with their tax dollars. The campus has extensive study areas in each academic building. Orchard Ridge presently has 3,300 students and a maximum capacity of 10,000.

Students interested in using the Orchard Ridge study facilities may call Dean Nichols at 476-9400.
