

Vests star in our designer collection

Let everyone else wilt. You'll look and feel like a cool million in this topnotch tropical. There's no smarter way to summer in town than in our vested lightweight suits. European inspired, but with the built-in benefits your American lifestyle demands. Superbly cut with easy shaping, side vents, patch pockets, and flared trousers. Luxurious polyester in muted summer shades. From $140.

The Difference in Fashion

Hillier's

ROCHESTER • FARMINGTON • STERLING HEIGHTS • DEARBORN

You don't have to look like a Mason to go to Farmington's Masonic Temple. A double-breasted suit will do just fine. Of course, back when the temple was built in 1876, the suit never would have worked since bicycling became vogue and sportswear emerged. Still, double-breasted is a great way to look, even for sportier occasions.

Whatever suits him

What makes a man buy clothes?

His wife?

His girlfriend?

Men's fashion magazines?

(Or his mistress, perhaps?)

The variety of responses brings us to the conclusion that there isn't one pat reason anymore than there is one pat man's fashion answer.

A school teacher, in his mid 20s from Bloomfield Township says he buys clothes as a pick-me-up.

"I buy clothes completely on impulse. That doesn't necessarily mean I buy without considering the rest of my wardrobe, but I never buy anything because I need something - only because it strikes my fancy."

The classic jacket from Mark of the Lion pairs green and khaki for rainy days.

(continued on page 16)