Teachers Tell Board Choices

The Farmington Education Association (FEA), collective bargaining agent for Farmington teachers, has announced its endorsements for the June 9 school election.

FEA endorsements for the four-year terms (2) were Mrs. Patricia Smith and Jack Garcia. For the one-year term, the FEA endorsed Richard Frankel.

* * *

ALL CANDIDATES were sent questionnaires asking them to state their opinions on various areas concerning education.

Areas included: financial support of public education; responsibility for curriculum development; teacher-school board relationship in negotiations; and reasons for seeking election.

FEA President Robert Neuhauser explains Mrs. Smith was selected on the basis of her previous service to the school board. She is an incumbent trustee of the board, having served one-year of a term left vacant by the resignation of George Otis.

THE FEA said Garcia, a former teacher, believes that "our schools are in need of someone who will not only devote his time to the great challenge our schools face, but who will keep abreast of school needs."

Frankel indicated an awareness of problems confronting public schools and an interest in becoming more deeply involved in the field of education, said Neuhauser.

All three candidates indicated a belief in the joint responsibility of teachers and school board members in maintaining and promoting a good image of teachers and education, said Neuhauser.

Exams Set For Athletes

John K. Cotton, director of physical education and athletics for Farmington schools, announces a new procedure for physical examinations of all junior and senior high athletes, including those from Our Lady of Sorrows.

Local doctors of osteopathy will be at Farmington High on June 18, North Farmington on June 19, to administer examinations for a $1 fee. Senior high athletes should report at 9 a.m. junior high at 10 a.m. Sixth graders who plan to enter athletics in junior high school should also report for the 10 a.m. period.

Prior to the exam, a physical examination card, available at the schools, should be completely filled out and signed by a parent. The signed form should be presented to the examining physician.

One one shall participate in athletic practice unless a card is filed in the principal's office at his school.

'Y' Guides Attend Pow Wow

The Farmington YMCA Indian Guide annual Rose Moon Pow Wow is being held this weekend (June 6 through June 8). Two camps will be used to accommodate the 400 fathers and sons attending the Pow Wow.

Camp Hiawatha, near Fairview, is the scene of activities for the older boys and their dads. Activities here will include archery, field and track events, fishing derby, boating, swimming and hiking. Camp Hiawatha is owned and operated by Terry Barr, former Detroit Lion.

The younger boys and their dads are attending Camp Nissokone, near Oscoda. Daytime activities will be similar to those at Camp Hiawatha. Saturday evening all braves will gather at the Council Ring for the formal induction of the new little braves into Indian Guides.

This campout is one of three weekend outings that the Farmington Federation plans for the Indian Guides each year.

John A. Hannah, who retired as president of Michigan State University, served in that post for nearly 28 years, the longest of any MSU president. He became administrator of the U.S. Agency for International Development.
