This pool, a 15-by-30-foot above-ground model, gives its owners untold hours of pleasure. According to studies by the National Swimming Pool Institute, this beauty spot's cost will likely be recovered if the home is sold.

Games make big splash in pools

Making a big splash with home swimming pool-owning families this year will be a wider-than-ever range of games based on long-popular 'dry' pastimes.

The increasing popularity of home pools several years ago prompted games and toys manufacturers to adapt such things as football, baseball, volleyball, jai alai, horseshoes, marbles and checkers to meet the needs of waterborne kids and adults.

The never-ending assortment of such in-pool games has more recently prompted the National

Swimming Pool Institute to advise potential pool owners to investigate the available games at the same time they are deciding what size and shape of pool they want.

Also an important consideration, suggests an official of the local NSPI chapter, is the amount of room that will be needed for poolside games such as shuffleboard or badminton.

"Plan your pool as part of a complete outdoor recreation center to be enjoyed by both children and adults," he says.
