We were "favored" with a near cyclone last Friday afternoon. Many branches of trees were broken and a number of fair-sized trees were blown down. Those coming from the city were greatly surprised to find water running in our streets, when they arrived here.

The fellow who stops his paper because he becomes offended at some item that does not suit his fancy, always imagines he is getting even with the publisher, but he is never missed. This only happens occasionally, for there are only a few people in our community who imagine a paper should contain nothing but what they approve of.

Mrs. George P. Conroy was called to Northville Saturday by the news that her brother, Charles E. Stanley, was very ill. Later, on Monday morning he passed away. Mr. Stanley was a member of the Northville band, being leader of that organization at different times. He had not been in good health for the past month. The funeral was held Wednesday at the home, and interment made in Rural Hill cemetery. The band boys acted as pallbearers and the Forresters, of which he was a member, attended the funeral in a body. The deceased was but 37 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children—one brother, Claude, of Northville; and one sister, Mrs. Conroy of this place, besides father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stanley, of Northville.

Mid-Summer Merchandising

OUR PRICES ARE BIGGER
BARGAINS EVERY DAY

The cost of staple merchandising is rising every day, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt but that scarcity of goods will become more serious as time goes on.

We are, however, now offering you a large stock of staple merchandise at very reasonable prices—at prices below today's market price. While there may be no "cutting" of prices, for the reason that our prices are below the market, we are still

Giving You Staple Goods at Bargain Prices

Frankly, we could not afford to reduce many of our lines of staple merchandise, because we could not again replace them at the price for which we are selling them for at the present time.

Our future orders of merchandise for fall, much of which is now coming in, is higher in price than the same merchandise now on our shelves—and we are protected in future purchases at that.

Every price offered in our stock is lower than it should be. We cannot maintain these prices long, because our stock of spring goods cannot last long.
