80 Hours Of Training Earns 15 Nursing Jobs

By ELIZABETH WISSMAN

FARMINGTON
By Aug. 15, the way of nurse Florence Nightingale will be no mystery to 15 Farmington girls. The 15 are enrolled in a nursing assistant (aide) program offered by Farmington schools. They have already had 40 hours of classroom instruction for four hours a day for 10 days at Farmington High School. The instructor was Mrs. Dorothy Burch, a registered nurse of many years experience. On July 21, the 15 embark on gaining 40 hours of clinical experience at Botsford General Hospital. Selected on the basis of their school attendance record, teacher evaluations, character and interest, these young ladies of mercy are Theresa Hessel, Linda Jean, Judith Johnston, Marian Lloyd, Pam Lloyd, Anna Martinez, Bonnie R. Manson, Kathie M. Mundy, Jill Napier, Donna Jean Penn, Karen Richmond, Carol Robbins, Suzanne Shanks, Myliss Virgin and Christine With. Young they are, the girls are learning the basics of hospital procedure from bed pans to care of the critically ill and dying, including post mortem care. They have to be hardy to accept this routine and by the time they are through training they will be eligible for employment as part-time nurses aides. Skills they will have learned will include hospital ethics, dietary care, pre-operative and post-operative care, bathing of patients, taking and keeping records.

Emphasis is given to study of nutrition, foods and fluids, special equipment, special types of care, special types of patients such as geriatric, care of the dying, intake and output measurements. All this is done without pay, but the training is invaluable. And while these young ladies are learning an irreplaceable art in caring for the sick, patients at Botsford are being cheered by daily contact with pretty youngsters. That's almost as good a medicine as penicillin.

Machinist Apprenticeships You Learn How By Doing Now

Last week's article examined the need for increased emphasis on vocational education across the nation and throughout the state.

This week, we concentrate on Farmington Schools and present a study of what is being done in vocational education.

VOCATIONAL education in Farmington is an integral part of the total education program and contributes toward the development of good citizens by developing their physical, social, civic, cultural and economic competencies.

The objectives are: to develop skills, attitudes, understanding, attitudes, work habits and appreciations; to encourage knowledge and information needed by workers to enter and make progress in employment on a useful and productive basis.

Boy's State Fetes Hughes

FARMINGTON
Bob Hughes of Farmington Township was recently honored at Wolverine Boy's State by being elected secretary of state. He was the only member of his political party to be elected to a state office. In addition, he received a plaque at an hours assembly for having received most out of Boy's State.

He also was nominated by the board of commissioners of Boy's State to attend Boy's State in Washington, D.C. Bob, 17, will be a senior this fall at North Farmington High School. His sponsor for Boy's State was Farmington Township. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes of 25865 Chapelview Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Landon H. Swanson recently moved here from West Lebanon, Ind. Mr. Swanson is an instrumental music teacher for Farmington Public Schools. This week Mrs. Howard Swanson is visiting from LaPorte, Ind.

Mr. Chester Siller of St. Louis, Mo., spent several days with his sister, Mrs. William F. Lancaster, and his nephew, Richard Lancaster and family and Mrs. Ruth Scott, all of Farmington. Mr. Siller flew in on June 20.

MR. AND MRS. Artie Kellekian and son Hovig Kellekian, 17, from Beirut, Lebanon are currently visiting Mr. Kellekian's uncle, Sarkis Mekjian and aunt Mrs. Alice Zakian of Wilmarth, Farmington.

Mr. Kellekian will follow in his uncle's footsteps and open a shoemaker shop in California where he will set up permanent residence after visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Leonard (Betty) Nersessian, a former nurse at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Guests at the Paul Charrons on Powers Rd. last week were Mr. Charron's sister, Mrs. Alice Lemay of Ottawa, Canada. This was her first visit to the United States and her granddaughter, Miss Suzanne Lacroix, also of Ottawa.

Suzanne was surprised on her 16th birthday by a birthday cake made by her great aunt (Mrs. Charron). It was decorated with trick candies which wouldn't blow out. Another surprise was the fact that one could shop on Sunday.

Cousin Miss Paula Charron made her first trip to Ottawa with her aunt and cousin. This will also be Paula's first trip away from home. She will be visiting relatives in Ottawa, Hull and Montreal. Paula expects to be gone for two months.

MR. AND MRS. Richard King and children Dan, Linda and David of Trestala street recently returned from a two-and-half week vacation.

They visited the Smokies on their way to Florida where they visited Cape Kennedy, Marine City and the oldest city in the United States, St. Augustine.

A little P.S. to my column I feel should be passed on. I received a note from Mrs. William F. Lancaster of Grand River Ave. stating she recently had a lovely surprise. Girl Scout Troop #134, seven girls and their Leaders Mrs. Sharon Pommerville and Mrs. Judy Cleveland, had heard that Mrs. Lancaster had not been well so they dropped by and brought her five different kinds of cookies. They also washed the walls of her front porch, washed her windows inside and out, did some general cleaning and raked up all the papers and trash in the yard.

This act of kindness was greatly appreciated by Mrs. Lancaster. She would like these ladies and scouts to read this. A big "Thank You" from a senior citizen.

The Rose Petal on the Cup...

According to ancient custom, it was a mark of unusual hospitality for a hostess to fill a cup of broth to the brim, and then as an added gesture, place a rose petal on the brimming surface.

The rose petal was definitely a token of good will. It made the beverage no richer in taste; it signified no greater quantity. It was merely an indication that the person who furnished it wanted to do everything possible to make her offering as pleasing as possible to the one who received it.

Times have changed. Few of us put rose petals on cups any more. But in the business world we do many things that take their place. Unfortunately, the word which describes the rose petals of today has been worked threadbare and meaningless. "Service is little in name—but not in action."

At our office we strive for a definite goal in this matter of serving our clients and customers. Frankly, we want to be known as unobtrusively understanding and helpful in all we do. We realize that this takes years of day-in-and-day-out performance of seemingly little extra services.

Few things please us more than to have people tell us that they enjoyed dealing with us.

Figuratively, such a response gives us the same kind of glow it must have given the hostess of ancient times. A guest has understood fully the friendly meaning of the rose petal on the cup.

Sincerely,
B. F. Chamberlain

Which dot is larger?

Whichever one you chose you are wrong! Both dots are exactly the same size. It's an illusion. Free checking plans can be an illusion, too. Only in this case you can choose one and be right. They sound the same, sometimes, but only Metro offers truly free checking. You don't pay a service charge no matter what monthly balance you keep or what you keep in your savings account. All Metro customers check free every month, both business and personal accounts.

At Metro all checking accounts are free - no minimum balance requirement
