Both the medium and the message have traveled far from the famous "I Want YOU" recruiting poster of World War I.

Today, the fine art poster is enjoying unprecedented popularity. Major contemporary artists are creating imaginative designs for important events sponsored by cultural institutions.

Thus, 40 fine examples of "The Art of the Poster" at the Detroit Institute of Arts Aug. 19 through Sept. 7 will be of unusual interest. The special exhibition has been organized by the museum's Project Outreach for display on the second level of the south wing prior to its state-wide tour.

THE POSTER showing begins with "Toulouse-Lautrec's bold effort to behalf of the cafe, "Divan Japonais" (1892); Jules Chéret's "Fais-toi Glace" (1904), inviting the beholder to enjoy ice skating at the arena; American artist John Sloan's green-gray "Moods" (1935) promoting a short-lived magazine, and Alphonse Mucha's alluring art nouveau lady adorning with Job cigarette papers.

Today's most prolific poster producer, Peter Max, is on hand to pay homage to the master with "Lauree" and Max's kaleidoscopic "Midnight's Dream," then framed in a multiple of four, suggesting the possibilities of infinite repetition of the basic design.

A one-man exhibition of paintings by Phillip Wilburn will be on display in the University of Michigan, Dearborn campus library beginning Aug. 7.

The display, on loan from the Donald Morris Gallery of Detroit, was arranged by Mrs. Deanna Sperka, UN-D art consultant. It will be open to the public free of charge.

Library hours are 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and 1:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Sunday.

Titles of the works on display are: "Family Portrait" (1966), "Two painting for people who don't believe in war as an American pastime" (1969), "Suburban Landscape" (1967), "Red Island" (1967), "On having Given Birth to a Father, a Mother, a Wife, Two Children and Myself" (1967).

Information sheets will be available at the library's circulation desk.

THIS COLONIAL CAMP chest, once the property of George Washington and used by him in the Revolutionary War, is from the permanent collection of the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. It will be a prominent part of the special "Treasures of the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village" exhibit this summer from June 27 to Sept. 7. The exhibit of more than 100 outstanding items from the institutions' vast collection of Americana celebrates its 40th anniversary year.
