JC rib dinner Saturday night

Saturday evening's menu at the Plymouth Fall Festival includes a generous serving of beef ribs, hot buttered corn-on-the-cob, cole slaw, bread and butter, a beverage, and ice cream for dessert. It's the annual Plymouth Jaycees rib dinner.

The beef is grilled over open barbecue pits, and the flavor lives up to the tantalizing aroma of the sizzling ribs. There is plenty of meat on the ribs and the leftover bones will keep the family dog happy for days.

Last year the Jaycees served their rib dinners to 2,500 satisfied customers.

SATURDAY IS a long day for club members and their Jaycette auxiliary.

They gather in the park at 7 a.m. and by the time they have completed the cleanup chores it is usually past 11 p.m.

Charlie McCallum is chairman of this year's dinner. His Jaycette assistant is Sue Jacoby. On Friday night a group of the auxiliary members meets to fold the dinner boxes. They place a napkin, salt and pepper and eating utensils in each box. These are then loaded in vans for transportation to the serving area the next day. The box project involves about 20 persons.

"The guys do the cooking and we work on the serving line," said Vickie Soper whose husband Phil is president of the club.

The Jaycettes dish up the cole slaw

Jaycee Ron Myers

and put the food in the boxes at the serving lines.

The young people put a lot of time and effort into the project, but the result is one of the most savory events of the festival.
